Sean Rash, Kelly Kulick Win World Bowling Tour Finals

Special World Tenpin Bowling Association events culminate two-year points chase

LAS VEGAS – After two years and more than 400,000 miles of global competition, reigning Professional Bowlers Association Player of the Year Sean Rash of Montgomery, Ill., along with PBA Tour titlist Kelly Kulick of Union, N.J., have won the World Bowling Tour Finals.

Rash, a seven-time PBA Tour title winner, defeated Mike Fagan of Fort Worth, Texas, 255-231, to win the WBT Men's Finals presented by the PBA during the PBA World Series of Bowling V, hosted by South Point Hotel, Casino and Spa, while Kulick, the 2010 PBA Tournament of Champions winner, raced away from defending champion Missy Parkin of Laguna Hills, Calif., 267-194, to win the WBT Women's Finals. Both events aired Sunday on ESPN.

Rash, who entered the WBT event as the leader in a two-year rolling points competition involving a series of WTBA/PBA International Tour tournaments held around the world, started his match against Fagan with seven strikes and was never challenged.

Fagan had been nearly perfect himself in eliminating Finland's Mika Koivuniemi, 279-223, in the first match. Koivuniemi, who won the 2011 WBT Men's Finals and finished second in 2012, is the only player to make the series finals in all three years the competition has been held.

"Anytime you have a chance to compete, whether it's in the U.S. or around the world, it's fun," Rash said. "That's why you're an athlete. You love to compete."

"I came into this event with a different mindset," he added. "The World Series wasn't as great as I would have liked, but it wasn't terrible. I feel great. I've been bowling well for the past few months. My life has changed since the arrival of our new baby. I'm in a happy place."

"You have to take advantage of opportunities," Rash continued. "Mike got a little lost on the left lane and that's why I had him finish there. I kinda figured the first mistake would come on that lane and that's what happened."

"It's always good to win. It doesn't matter; it could be league. I like to win."

In the all-U.S. women's preliminary match, Parkin held off Liz Johnson of Cheektowaga, N.Y., 198-195, but was no match for Kulick, who struck on every shot except for leaving a 10 pin (which she missed) in the eighth frame.

Sean Rash & Kelly Kulick World Bowling Tour Champions

"The question I've been asking myself is 'Am I still good enough to be out here? Should I keep doing this?'" Kulick said. "The WBT event was just reassurance of my confidence level and my ability as a player. I came out to prove something to nobody except myself today. It was just sheer determination to beat whomever I had to face. It's almost a relief knowing I won again."

The WBT Finals, like the PBA animal pattern tournaments held earlier in the World Series, were bowled on the unique blue-tinted lane conditioner in order to allow onsite fans and ESPN viewers an opportunity to see the WTBA's Atlanta lane oiling pattern. Like the players who had experienced bowling on the tinted oil in previous events, it was a non-factor as far as Kulick was concerned.

"I didn't even see it," she said. "As a professional, we look at ball reaction, so honestly, I didn't even notice it, other than the lane was blue."

PBA competition on ESPN continues on Sunday, Jan. 12, at 1 p.m. ET with the finals of the Round 1 Japan Cup from Tokyo. The eight finalists for the single-elimination match play format finals include PBA members Rash; Osku Palermaa, Finland; Tommy Jones, Simpsonville, S.C.; Chris Barnes, Double Oak, Texas; E.J. Tackett, Huntington, Ind., and Japan PBA members Shinichi Horie, Yuya Kotah and Kazuaki Watanabe.

ESPN's coverage of the PBA World Series of Bowling V concludes on Sunday, Jan. 19, at 3 p.m. ET with the PBA Regional Players Invitational Finals and PBA50 Tour Finals, followed by one-hour coverage of the Teen Masters Grand Championship.

Citrus Belt's DARRON PETERS Rolls Two 300s in WCST Year End Tourney

by Frank Weiler

TEMECULA — Darron Peters is home again managing the Rollin Rock Pro Shop inside Temecula Lanes. His trip to Laughlin's Riverside Lanes a week ago was worth $800 for a third place finish in the WCST's final tournament of the year.

Peters was the Citrus Belt's top finisher in the tournament won by DON BLANCHFORD. Darron did pretty well considering the competition included ERIC FORKEL, RON MOHR, DON MOSER, and RON WINGER in addition to Blanchford.

Darron led the tournament after the first day of qualifying averaging 233 for ten games. His high was a 300 in game seven. He rolled a second 300 during the finals and bowled as well as anyone. However, some close match game losses resulted in his settling for third place.

Mr. Peters is a Storm/Roto-Grip staff member and used the Storm Byte and Roto-Grip Deranged bowling balls during the tournament. Congratulations Darron and thank you BOWLING NEWS for supporting Citrus Belt bowlers.

Go Chargers!! Tame them Broncos!! AGAIN!!

Bowling News is proud to bring you....

Chuck Pezzano

Dean of Bowling Writers, PBA & USBC Hall of Fame

There is no such thing as tournament time — because there are fine tournaments being conducted 12 months of the year.

Ever stop to think of how many bowling tournaments are available in the world each year? Ad educated guess might put the figure at more than 10,000.

There are big money, small money and no money tournaments. There are family, school, church, business, profession, city, county, state, sectional, national, zone, continent and world tournaments. There are pro tournaments and amateur tournaments and pro-amateur tournaments.

There are singles, doubles and team tournaments. There are events for boys, girls, men, women and mixed covering every age. There are sibling tournaments, husband and wife, father and son, mother and daughter, and any other relationship tournaments.

There are club tournaments and shop tournaments and office tournaments and religious tournaments. There are tournaments for people who can't see or can't walk or can't hear.

And with all that only a small percentage of the number and scope of the variety of bowling tournaments staged annually have been touched upon.

Yet, many bowlers never have rolled in a tournament.

Let it be known that there is a tournament for every bowler, regardless of the size of your average — or budget. Look through any bowling publication, check the desk or bulletin board at your bowling centers and read all your communications and you're sure to find one or two tournaments designed just for you.

Tournament bowling is the extra icing on the bowling cake.

Tournament bowling is fun and always profitable. It isn't always profitable in a financial sense, though many have won cash, merchandise, trips, and other goodies, large and small. But you always enter into a new and exciting phase of the sport where the competition is different but the game is the same.

How can you tell if a tournament is a good one? Check out those conducting the tournaments, where it is being run, and read closely all the rules and fine print on the entry blank. A tournament survives only if bowlers are given a fair shake and tournaments don't last unless they have needed participation.

In many tournaments, particularly local and state and national association events, plus most charity tournaments, many dedicated people work hours that would stagger the imagination.

In some tournaments you can win six figures or more. In others you can't win much more than satisfaction in being a player, and maybe a title and trophy, be it thimble size or taller than you are.

You can't gain the full rewards bowling offers unless you roll in tournaments even now and then.

So give your local or state tournament a whirl. Don't miss some of the fine competition your local center offers. Check out tournament clubs. There is as wide a variety in tournaments as there is in the aims of bowlers but bowlers can find the right one with a little effort.

If you've never rolled a tournament, roll one in the near future. If you have, roll one more.

There can be problems at times, like when the nudist convention ran a bowling tournament. Nobody looked at the scores.

BOWLING WORDS OF THE PAST

Puddle: A gutter ball.

Pumpkin: Synonym for bowling ball.

Railroad: Two or more pins which remain standing with intermediate pins knocked out in front and between. Most of the country uses this term. In Wisconsin such a leave is called a split.

Sandwich Game: Same as Dutch 200. (Alternating strikes and spares for a 200.)

Umbrella Ball: A nosy hit where pins seem to fly in every direction for a strike.

Woolworth: The 5 and 10 split or railroad, named after the 5 & 10 cent store.

Many of those terms evolved from league bowling, and were coined by average bowlers. These days most of the new words originate on the pro tour, and have much to do with the power of the young bowlers and the effects of the new equipment particularly the powerful bowling balls.

Most of the pros probably would not recognize half of the terms used half a century ago.

But almost any bowler will recognize one of the following, Bedpots, Fence Posts, Goal Posts, Mule Ears, Snake Eyes and a number of unmentionables to identify the unwanted — the dreaded 7-10 split.

Guy Pena is one happy camper!! Guy was the lucky winner of the XBOX 360 at the Annual Family New Years Eve Party at Del Rio Lanes in Downey.

The Perfect Game

by Steve Felege

A New Year’s Resolution from Carol Mancini

Carol: Well Steve, it’s a new year and a lot of bowlers have resolved to get better.

Steve: Yes they have.

Carol: But most of them make that same resolution every year.

Steve: Yes they do.

Carol: But most of them never get better!

Steve: Does that surprise you?

Carol: Well, sure! Year after year those same bowlers go out and carry the same old averages. What bothers me most is they act like they just don’t care.

Steve: Bingo! You just said the magic word!

Carol: What, “care”?

Steve: No, “act.” Many bowlers hide the frustration of being mediocre by acting as if they don’t care, but on the inside they desperately want to get better. You and I both know that nobody likes to lose, but there’s a big difference between wanting to get better and knowing how to get better.

Carol: Let’s make a resolution to fix that! You start!

Steve: Me?! Wait, this was your idea! You start.....

Carol: Alright, fine! This year I resolve to fix that! Okay, now it’s your turn.

Steve: But.....

Carol: No “Buts.” You’re the coach here, now prove it.

Steve: Oh, a challenge? I like that! Okay, here we go! Let’s start by saying this to your readers: Each and every one of you has the ability to be a great bowler!

Carol: Do you really believe that?

Steve: It’s not a belief; it’s a fact! The best shot in bowling is a strike, and every bowler can do that. Therefore, everyone has the ability to bowl great.

Carol: There’s a big hole in your logic, mister! Great bowlers deliver more strikes!

Steve: Bingo! For everyone, improving means nothing more than learning how to deliver their best shot more often.

Carol: That makes sense.

Steve: We’ve already pointed out that the physical design of the game allows everyone to deliver strikes, so the difference between higher and lower average bowlers must be something other than the physical game. The only thing left is the mental aspect of the game.

Carol: Booooooring! (fake yawn)

Steve: No! What’s boring is carrying the same average year after year. Can I tell you a little story?

Carol: Have I ever been able to stop you?

Steve: A couple years ago I arrived a bit early at the center where I coach. Only two ladies were practicing at the time. They were in their early eighties and had been bowling together since childhood. Both had beautiful, classic approaches. One averaged 124. She stood way back on the approach and released the ball well behind the foul line. The other averaged 150 and performed one flawless delivery after another, ending her approach just inches from the foul line. Two grandchildren watched from the spectator’s area.

Both were struggling to hit their respective averages, but they were so smooth that I asked if I could make a video of them to show my girls (I had just been given an ipad for Christmas). They agreed. After that I asked 124 why she started so far back on the approach. She said, “That’s where I’ve always started from.” Then she added, “In my younger days I used the whole approach.” I then asked 150 why she played the line she was using. She told me that her coach had told her to play there.....over 60 years ago! I asked if they would mind if I made a suggestion or two. They both nodded. I recommended 124 move up on the approach (to which 150 scolded, “I’ve been telling her that for twenty years!”).

I then recommended a slight change to the line 150 was playing (to take advantage of the “house-shot” oil pattern). The grandchildren showed no interest whatsoever. My girls arrived and “practice” began. A short while later, 150 tapped me on the shoulder. With tears in her eyes she said she wanted to show me something. It was their score sheet. She was so sure no one would believe her, she’d had it printed out. She had just bowled a 225 and her friend shot 187.

Carol: And she had tears of joy?

Steve: Not exactly. The two “grandchildren” were actually a pair of juvenile delinquents that had just stolen their purses from the spectators area (later recovered from the men’s restroom).

Carol: And the morale of your story is.....?

Steve: Something my mentor, Luke Curlett, used to say. “Every lane has a line to the pocket. Your job is to find it, then stay on it all night long!” The difference between great and average bowlers is the knowledge needed to find that line. That means learning to adjust. 124 and 150 had spent their whole bowling careers doing only what they had been taught. When the teaching ended, so did their improvement. They had terrific skills, but never experimented with them.

Carol: And you think that’s why bowlers hold the same averages year after year?

Steve: Yes I do. Another wise man once said, “When you don’t know something, you don’t know that you don’t know it.” Like those two ladies, many bowlers haven’t been taught even basic adjustments. They don’t know what to adjust or when to adjust, so they keep performing the same routine week after week, year in, year out.

Carol: So, that’s the mental aspect of the game you were talking about?!

Steve: Exactly! Adjustments are the little secrets great bowlers keep to themselves.

Carol: I resolve to cover “adjusting” in the next edition of The Perfect Game. Are you with me on that Steve?

Steve: As my very best friend in California would say, “Absolutely!”

ROUND 3 - WEEK 4

by Mama Mancini

DOWNEY — Back to the Ebonite report after a couple of Mondays off.

LOS ALTOS TROPHY rocked SYSCO for four big points, sending SYSCO down the sheet to fourth place. LOS ALTOS (Team 13) wasn't just lucky, they all bowled well on the "long oil" winning by 124 pins over-all. This foursome hasn't gotten much press this season — so here goes your 30 seconds of fame. Kudos to Matt Jones 672, Derek Lee 567, Anthony Burrell 615 and Zack Jellsey 639.

Next Monday "KEYSTONE LANES" will be on the hunt, stalking LOS ALTOS, determined to bag a "TROPHY".

THREADWORKS has been yo-yoing up and down the sheet, and this coming week could be their chance to "shoot the moon". BUT, who could steal the thunder? SYSCO!!

We know all about the SYSCO kids, let's check the "THREADWORKS" team work.

Newlywed Eric Snow is the lead-off coming in at 200 and currently carrying 206. Jessica Diso, one of four women who regularly competes. 178 in, 176 now. Paul Varela, veteran Ebonite bowler, in at 201, now 209. Anchorman Mike Villarreal in at 208, up to 210. He is either darned lucky or a guy who works on his game!

This is going to be a re-match. THREADWORKS versus SYSCO. Tis the FEAR - FUN - FACTOR all rolled into one. Good show, good seats.

Tied at 13 wins each are PRO APPROACH-BOWLIUM and BOWLERS DEPOT. Eight guys hoping to propel their team up the ladder. Tis possible! Go for it!!

Last week surprise sub was Robert Smith. This week's surprise sub was Katrina Fujikami, a bowler who came up through the Junior ranks right here at Del Rio Lanes. Both of her parents were above average bowlers — who now spend their "spare" time on the golf course. Katrina's debut was impressive 233/638! Did you leave your number for future sub calls?

There has been a positive rise in pinfall, more 2400's and fewer 1900's. Not sure if that means more strikes or more makeable spares. If the national average for male bowlers is 160, the Ebonite average of 194 is impressive.

We are proud to support you!
