Mira Mesa Youth Bowler Harley Sweigart Shoots 848

MIRA MESA — During his final weeks bowling in our youth program, Harley Sweigart bowled his highest series shooting 300, 280 & 268 for an 848. Harley began bowling at 4 years old in New Jersey. When he moved he started bowling at Mira Mesa Lanes in 2008. He bowled his first 300 at the age of 13. Since then, he's bowled eight 300's and has had three 800 + series. He won his first JBT the first time he entered and now has 6 JBT titles with many top 5 finishes. He came in 150th out of 1095 at last year at Jr. Gold and competed this year as well. Over the last two years Harley has cashed at the Pepsi State finals and finished 2nd this year. He has also been one of, if not the top youth bowler in San Diego County earning his place on the All-Star team for last four years. Harley will be attending Arizona State University (ASU) in the fall and will be bringing his big game to their bowling team...GO SUN DEVILS!

The Other Side of the Glenn Allison Perfect Series

Editor's note: In the previous article, we presented the case for official recognition, by the USBC, of Glenn Allison's legendary 900 series. Of course, there's another side to this story and it's only fair to present that side as well.

At 1:30 PM EST on September 23, 2015, I contacted Neil Stremmel, Managing Director of the National Governing Body at the USBC. He admitted that he hadn't been greatly involved with the last investigation of Glenn Allison's 900, but was extremely knowledgeable about the subject and more than willing to share what he knew.

He explained the two methods used in the early eighties to check alley-oil conditions. One was a form of Scotch tape which was placed across the lanes, allowed to absorb oil, then exposed to UV light. The amount of fluorescence indicated the amount of oil present. He said he didn't know if the tape was used in that case because it may not have been on the market yet. The method most likely used was called, "smear and tactile measurement." This consisted of nothing more than wiping a finger across various locations along the lane to determine oil distribution. He admitted that, since there is no way to calibrate an individual's sense of feel, it was, by necessity, a judgment call. He then referred me to Chad Murphy, Executive Director of the USBC.

The Last Frame: Tustin Lanes Closed After Nearly 4 Decades

Originally published by Orange County Register.

TUSTIN — The last pin fell at Tustin Lanes, as the family-owned bowling alley gets ready to shut down after 38 years.

Tustin Lanes has been a long-time favorite for leagues and tournaments. Customers say that's because the Old Irvine Boulevard property hung onto affordable prices and a neighborhood feel, even as trendy bowling centers with flashy technology and high-end cocktails popped up around it.

"Tustin Lanes is like home," bowler Patty Wood said. "It is just so sad."

The closure is in keeping with a national trend. There are less than half as many bowling centers nationwide today as when league play was at its peak in the late 1970s and early 80s, according to Tom Martino, president of the Bowling Proprietor's Association of America.

"Now you have to rely more and more on casual bowlers who come only when they want to. That puts the bowling center in a bad situation," Martino said, with many businesses now worth less than the real estate they sit on.

Wood and her husband, Matt, have bowled in a league at Tustin Lanes just about every Monday night for the past 27 years. Their five-person team is called Aces or Better, and it includes another couple they met at the bowling center more than 20 years ago.

"I've seen engagements. I've seen people having babies," Wood said. "These are lifelong friendships we've made with some people."

Tustin Lanes has been a family affair not only for the customers, but for the owners as well.

Jack Mann, who once owned an orthodontist practice in town, broke ground on the property at the height of the bowling craze in March 1977. Mann had quite the bowling empire, owning for some time Fountain Bowl in Fountain Valley, Regal Lanes in Orange, Kona Lanes in Costa Mesa and Chaparral Lanes in San Dimas.

Competition got stiffer in Tustin in 2008, when Strike Orange County opened a bowling center at The District. The center, which is now Bowlmor, includes such features as glow-in-the-dark lanes and audio-visual technology.

In 2009, Mann bowed out of the industry when he sold Tustin Lanes to his youngest son, Alex Mann, who also owns Arlington Lanes in Riverside. Within months of taking over, Alex Mann made updates to electronic scoring equipment, decor and signage at the Tustin property.

Along with its 42 bowling lanes, Tustin Lanes offered pool tables, flat-screen TVs and projectors throughout, an arcade, laser tag, two party rooms, a full bar, a snack bar and a pro-shop. Alex Mann told the Register when he took over that he was surveying customers about other possible improvements, but insisted Tustin Lanes would never convert to a trendy center like Bowlmor.

Many bowling centers that have survived the shifting industry have removed some lanes and added other forms of entertainment such as bumper cars that generate more revenue. Many have also embraced high-end food — a trend that's hit shopping malls, airports and other industries, too.

While Tustin Lanes isn't the most modern of bowling centers, it remains friendly and affordable.

As word began to spread about the pending closure, bowlers said, "It's really a shame. This will displace over a dozen leagues, which use the center Monday through Sunday, affecting hundreds of leaguers, other families, church groups and kids birthday party people."

When the current season ends, some bowlers will move to Irvine Lanes or Carter Bowl.

Proprietors see some glimmers of hope, with a push to get bowling in the 2020 Olympics and attract more young people.

With such nods to nostalgia, owners hope league bowling might see the same sort of revival that's made vinyl and beards cool again.

Mason Sherman named to Ventura County USBC Hall of Fame

By Fred Eisenhammer

SIMI VALLEY – He's rolled 81 perfect games and 45 800 series and won two Professional Bowlers Assn. regional titles. He's even knocked down a few 7-10 splits, including one earlier this year.

And he's just 30 years old.

That's Mason Sherman, the newest member of the Ventura County United States Bowling Congress Hall of Fame.

Sherman received his honor last week at Harley's Simi Bowl in Simi Valley. Sherman joined such luminaries in the Ventura County Hall of Fame as Robert Smith, the powerful right-hander who has won seven PBA Tour titles.

Sherman received his Hall of Fame plaque in a ceremony that was a complete surprise to him. "I think they wanted to sneak attack me," joked Sherman a day after being honored.

"I was so shocked and I still am," added Sherman, a Simi Valley resident. "The words on the plaque and my name on it just don't make any sense. It's such a big honor."

Sherman, while being modest, ranks among the very top of elite bowlers in the area. He has consistently bowled well over 200 in league play, whether he competed at Harley's Simi Bowl, Del Rio Lanes in Downey, Corbin Bowl in Tarzana, Buena Lanes in Ventura, Santa Clarita Lanes or Mission Hills Bowl.

He set a personal high during the 2012-13 season when he averaged a whopping 243 in a scratch league at Harley's Simi Bowl.

"That's like my second home to me," said Sherman about Harley's

Attending the award ceremony were Dan Mueller, chairman of the Hall of Fame committee; Hall-of-Famer Mason Sherman; and Ed Rogoff, vice president of the Ventura County USBC Bowling Assn.

Simi Bowl. "I grew up at Harley's Simi. I've been bowling there since I was seven."

Sherman has been described as a "cranker" when it comes to his bowling style and he doesn't disagree.

"I definitely have more of a power game," said Sherman, a right-hander. "There's not much finesse to my game."

Ace bowler Craig Kisro pays tribute to Sherman when he says that he "never leaves anything in the bag when he throws a shot." Kisro adds that Sherman is "100 percent speed, torque and crank on every shot, similar to the golfer who always swings hard off the tee."

The night he was inducted into the Hall of Fame, Sherman let his feelings be known in a heartfelt post on his Facebook page. Interestingly, he wrote his post while he was compiling a 700 series.

Here is what he wrote:

"I am floored beyond words right now. I had no idea something like this would happen tonight or ever for that matter. Bowling is my passion. I have loved our game since I first started at the ripe age of 7 years old.

"23 years later and I have the same fire and always aspire to better myself and help promote the game where I can.

From the loudmouth, slappy, crazy, different-colored-hair, ear-pierced little butthead I was and still kind of am sometimes . . . I have grown as a person thanks to my friends, my family and most of all, my wife, Andi Garrison-Sherman. You make me the best version of myself.

"You have helped mold me into the man and bowler I have become over the last several years. Your support and love mean more to me than words can explain. Have to thank my father and grandparents for introducing me to bowling. Had to start somewhere and it started with bumpers and my dad teaching me the game I have grown to love. And a special thank-you to all my friends and the amazing talents of our game that have helped me along the way, befriended me and competed with me. Means the world.

"Thank you so much to the Ventura County United States Bowling Congress for this incredible honor. Thanks to Dan Mueller and Ed Rogoff for presenting me with this plaque.

"Thank you to Ron Plander for providing a center and junior program that kept me out of trouble and to help excel at this game. Thank you to Buena Lanes for also providing a second home, a fantastic junior program and now the tournament club.

"It is absolutely one of the most cherished awards and honors I have received.

"Also thanks to one of my best friends first – and my boss second – Rick Soto, for letting me take time off to pursue competitive bowling!

"I hope I can continue to help keep the game growing for the next generation. We are all part of the solution.

"Thanks so so much!"

Three years ago, Sherman was the driving force behind a bowling fund-raiser that was held at Harley's Simi Bowl for the Leukemia and Lymphoma Society.

He came up with the idea as a goodwill gesture for his then-girlfriend, Andi, who was involved in raising funds for the Leukemia and Lymphoma Society.

One year later, the two were married. They recently had their first son, named Emmett, who is now three months old.

Said Sherman: "My family is most important to me. When I was younger, it was always about bowling first. My dad was the one who showed me the game. He got me to a competitive level. I hope I have exceeded even his expectations. I can tell you wholeheartedly that it blows my mind I have had the opportunity to compete at a high level and bowl next to some of the best in the world. Bowling has always been humbling and the greatest thing about it is, you can never perfect it. You can always learn something new in our game. It is a reason I love it.

"I have obtained much more from bowling over and above any of my achievements though. I have been given the gift of lifelong friendships because of bowling. I will always thank the game and be proud of the game for that.

"As I have grown older, my career has become a focal point and bowling became secondary as my passion. I met my wife, we were married, we rescued our dogs and had our son; everything I do now is for my family and I couldn't be more thankful. My wife, my son, and my pups . . . they motivate me to no end. I want to be the best for them whether I'm at work, at home or in a bowling alley doing what I love . . . it is all for them."

Powerful PWBA Photo Is A Family Affair

By Fred Eisenhammer

Danielle McEwan and her mom, Susan Varano, are full of emotion after McEwan scores her first PWBA victory.

It was powerful. It was poignant. It was dramatic. And it was emotional.

The accompanying photo was all those things. It was taken Sept. 13 by Gregg Ellman, who was covering the Smithfield Professional Women's Bowling Assn. Tour Championship in Arlington, Tex., for the United States Bowling Congress.

I found this picture so moving, so touching, that I felt compelled to write about it. After all, it's not often that I get teary-eyed looking at a photograph – and a bowling photo at that.

But Ellman's photo did just that.

McEwan entered the championship match as the underdog. McEwan, a Stony Point, N.Y., resident, was a four-time Team USA member and a star bowler at Fairleigh Dickinson University. But she was facing Stefanie Johnson of Grand Prairie, Tex., who was bidding to become the PWBA player of the year with a victory in the title match.

Johnson had already claimed a PWBA title at the Wichita Open in July and led the tour in cashes and match-play appearances.

Furthermore, Johnson had reached the championship match by defeating famed Kelly Kulick.

McEwan, who had turned 24 years old less than two weeks earlier, didn't exactly get off to a rousing start against Johnson.

In a match that was broadcast live on CBS Sports Network, McEwan left the dreaded 7-10 split twice in the first six frames, leaving her with two opens and stunting her momentum.

But McEwan wasn't to be denied.

Undaunted, the right-handed McEwan shook off the two opens and blasted strikes on her final five shots. McEwan's late charge forced Johnson to double in the 10th to win. But Johnson's first shot sailed through the head pin – and this time it was her turn to leave the 7-10 split.

Final score: McEwan 233, Johnson 205.

So McEwan claimed the $20,000 top prize and her first professional victory – setting off the family victory fireworks.

Earlier in the month, McEwan paid tribute to all the support she was receiving – not just from her mother but also from her siblings: Nick, 13, Victoria, 11, and Gianna, 8. Her boyfriend, PBA bowler Marshall Kent, also was cited as a big help.

"I wouldn't be able to do this without them," McEwan said. "I just came out of college and started bowling against the guys for three years, which really didn't allow me to earn enough money to support myself. So they really just said 'go chase your dreams, and whatever you need along the way, we are here for you.'"

So there was a lot of emotion that rose to the surface when McEwan's Smithfield victory went into the books.

It was all so palpable – courtesy of a photo that captured it so well.

TEAM FISH UNVEILS "BOWL FOR THE CURE" FUND-RAISING PROJECT

Team Fish, the group of young PBA members who have banded together for fun and friendship, is adding "fund-raising" to its portfolio. Led by North Carolina team members Connor Pickford of Charlotte and Kyle Troup of Taylorsville, Team Fish is unveiling a custom-designed t-shirt that will be sold to raise money in support of the efforts to find a cure for breast cancer.

Pickford, who lost his mother Valerie to breast cancer in September 2001, and Troup, whose grandmother died from the disease in 2010 and whose mother is a breast cancer survivor, are leading the Team Fish effort to raise money as part of the national October Breast Cancer Awareness month campaign. The special breast cancer t-shirt can be ordered through the Team Fish page on Facebook. Orders are now being accepted. All proceeds from the t-shirt sales will be donated to Susan G. Komen for the Cure through the bowling family's Bowl for the Cure program.

- Page posted a 6-4 match play record and an 18-game pinfall total of 4,257, including match play bonus pins, to qualify first for the stepladder finals. Garcia earned his place in the title match by defeating Scott Newell of Deland, Fla., 211-189, in the semifinal round. In the first stepladder match, Newell defeated Chris Polizzi of Spring Hill, Fla., 238-178.

- Amateur Mike Dole of Loves Park, Ill., won five of his eight matches and finished with a total of 3,767 pins for 15 games to defeat PBA Hall of Famer Pete Weber of St. Ann, Mo., by 65 pins to win the PBA Budweiser Midwest Open at Cherry Lanes inside Diamond Jo Casino on Sunday. The win was Dole's first in PBA Regional competition, but he does not get credit for a title because he is a non-member. He earned $2,000 while Weber earned $1,000 for second place.

DEL KARPER Continues His "HOT PACE"

by Frank Weiler

SAN BERNARDINO - I don't think Del Karper has ever had a bad day on the lanes. His average is always in the 220 range and he never seems to vary off that score. How does he do it? Simple: TALENT.

Del Karper has a talent for scoring. Talent is a word that can be defined as an ability to perform consistently and with a high degree of skill. That's a great description for Del's bowling game: skilled and consistent.

So what does skill and consistency translate to on the lanes? A 220 average and first place in league play. And that is just what Del is up to. With one session to go Del is averaging 221 and leads the SoCAL Men's Club. I believe he will keep up his 221 pace and take this seasons crown.

The Club is a singles league and features a match game format made for Del's consistent style. Within a few weeks we will know if Del continues his "HOT PACE" and wins this seasons Club title. Good luck Del. I can't wait to see what happens.

The Perfect Game by Steve Felege

Mr. Murphy said that all the evidence reviewed was public record and was gracious enough to supply the case number for reference. Multiple phone calls to the Central District Court of CA and the National Archives & Records Administration revealed that all records involving "Glenn Allison VS the ABC" had been destroyed in 2011. The statute of limitations may have expired. In response to this news, Mr. Murphy advised that either Mr. Allison or his attorney may have copies. Long story short; they don't.

Unfortunately, both men asked that specifics of our conversations remain "off the record," so let me be clear about one thing; neither of these men acted as though they were trying to cover anything up. Quite to the contrary, both spoke highly of Glenn Allison and did their level best to provide the information requested. For them, it boils down to this: Rules are rules, the case was tried in court, the denial of his award was upheld, and that history can't/shouldn't be changed.

To date, the USBC has refused to yield to any and all pressure to make that change happen. For that, they should be saluted, not maligned, for sticking to their principles. If you think these people are stubborn, pig-headed power-brokers, you would be wrong. They are indeed stubborn individuals, but they are also intellectuals who care deeply about our sport and they are tasked with preserving an unpopular legacy inherited from the ABC.

The easiest thing for them to do would be to cave-in to the pressure applied whenever this subject is broached by the media. Men of true character don't "cave" easily (unless their wives are involved). The bad news is that, barring some new evidence, the present administrators of the USBC are unlikely to revisit this issue again.

Takeaway. The supporters of Glenn Allison, myself included, want to see official recognition, in some form, of his title as "Mr. 900". The longer the USBC delays that recognition, the more they risk becoming irrelevant as the legion of bowlers supporting this point of view grows in number.

That is already beginning to happen. Bowlers Journal International, one of the most highly regarded and widely read bowling publications on the planet, put Glenn Allison definitively at the top of their list of bowlers to achieve a 900 series (see March 27, 2010 issue). They justified doing that by simply placing an asterisk next to his name.

Certainly such a move could/should be considered by the USBC. If the decline of their relevance is allowed to continue, more people may choose to stop bowling or remain sanctioned, and that would not be healthy for this sport.

Over time, more people will write about this subject and bring more pressure to bear on them. Waiting for someone to prove anything regarding this matter becomes less likely as time passes. Evidence disappears and eye witnesses pass. Is this urban legend to remain just that? I hope not.

Mr. Allison told me he was recently contacted by the ABC (American Broadcasting Company) about their interest in covering this story. Perhaps their lofty resources and top-flight investigative personnel can uncover something that will bring the recognition he earned so long ago. Stay tuned. PICK UP THE PHONE!!! Call Carol Mancini @ 1-562-807-3600 (Mondays 2-7 PM PT). Or Email us at: news@californiabowlingnews.com. We'd love to hear from you!

Correction: In last week's article this statement was incorrect: "If the ABC wanted a valid second opinion, they should have brought in an inspector from a nearby association and had it done ASAP. Instead, they flew in a second inspector to perform the re-examination the next morning. Why they did this is unknown, but it was irresponsible. The measurements taken by that official were worthless, yet were used to deny recognition of a great milestone in bowling."

At 3:30 PM EST on September 28, 2015, I received a call from Mr. Edward "Bud" Pinchot. The reason for his call was to inform me that the ABC was not irresponsible in dealing with this affair. Three other inspectors had also been called in, arriving within fifteen to twenty minutes after Bob Ramirez. He was one of them. The others were Terry Johnson and Bob Strange. They each inspected the lanes and filled out separate forms.

It was Mr. Pinchot's recollection that all four inspectors were within "a board or two of each other" in determining the oil distribution that night. The average of their findings was used to determine whether the lanes passed or failed.

P.S. I apologize for any inconveniences this may have caused, but I am relying on both written and verbal information. Other errors may exist in the information presented, but is not intentional. I stand by last week's statement that any oil measurements taken after two full shifts of activity bowling are useless, and that Glenn Allison should be honored appropriately.

P.S.P.S. Mr. Pinchot stated that he has always thought Glenn Allison deserved to be recognized for his achievement. After all, no matter what the conditions were, he still had to make the shots. He even told me that the ABC set up an ideal lane condition, used a machine to deliver the balls and could NOT come close to repeating what Glenn had accomplished.

CONGRATULATIONS! GERI CURTIS

CONGRATULATIONS! GERI CURTIS, who bowled a beautiful 181 All Spare Game in the Roaring 90's League. This is a second of her career. Geri was introduced to bowling in the early 1980's by her father when she was seven years old. It wasn't until the early 1990's that Geri became serious about the game and became a sanctioned bowler (as we called it then), and joined the Roaring 90's. She has since remained a faithful member of the league and a dear friend.

NATIONAL DEAF BOWLING NEWS

by Connie Marchione

BOB JONES' LONE 869 TOPS DEAF TRAVEL AT BOWLING SQUARE

ARCADIA — After blowing out the lights at Keystone Lanes on So-Cal Deaf Traveling League's season opener day with a 279 and 975, Darrell Stogryn's ball was quiet in the traveling league's action at Bowling Square. At the Square Stogryn turned normal with games of 184-172-195-191, which landed him on the league's day honor roll with a 742 total.

Bob Jones actually did the reverse, by failing to make the league's honor roll by 5 pins with 695 consisting scores of 192 and 191 at Keystone. At Bowling Square Jones led the short honor roll by blasting 195-213-223-238 for the lone 869 series of the day.

Joining Jones and Stogryn on the Day's roll list is the league President Ed Abakumoff with his 757 from 176-190-200-191. Two guys with 200 also made the list, Paul Taffolla Jr. with 223 and Robert Audette with 201. Sharon Caldwell was the high lady with her 183 and 622.

In the teams matches action Jones' league leading S F Valley made a near sweep 17-3 win over Abakumoff's Riverside, increasing Valley's lead to 8 points over Audette's Mid City. Mid City and Gorman Low's Anaheim fought to a 10-10 draw. Taking advantage of Stogryn's off day Taffolla's Eagle Rock moved up to 3rd place by winning 14-6 over Stogryn's Chino Hills. S F Valley also took over the season high team series with 2062.

This 56 years old traveling league thanked Bowling Square management for hosting. Next travel trip will be on Sunday October 11 to Chaparral Bowl in San Dimas with bowling at Noon. The matches there will be a thriller with Stogryn against Jones.

A black and white illustration of a man in a dynamic pose, leaning forward as if in the middle of a bowling swing. He is wearing a light-colored short-sleeved shirt and trousers. His right arm is extended back, and his left leg is forward, suggesting motion. He is holding a bowling ball in his right hand, which is positioned near the ground. The background is a simple horizontal line representing the bowling lane. To the right of the man, the word "BOWL" is written in large, bold, block letters. Below it, the words "for health" are written in a cursive, script font. The overall style is reminiscent of mid-20th-century graphic design.

9th DON GLOVER MASTERS

by: Bette Addington

Bakersfield, CA-- The 9th annual Don Glover Masters Scratch Tournament will be taking place this weekend (Oct. 3-4) at AMF Southwest Lanes in Bakersfield where it originally started. AMF Southwest Lanes is located at 3610 Wible Road just off Fwy. 99 at the White Lane exit.

AMF Southwest Lanes was remodeled last year with new carpet and new flooring in the settee areas. Besides getting this new facelift remodel, AMF Southwest Lanes is now under the management of James McCarter who not only manages this center, but is the AMF area manager for other area centers. And, McCarter is a bowler and even ran a Pro Shop before becoming an AMF manager!

This year's Glover event pattern will be Bourbon Street on synthetic lanes. The qualifying squad times for Saturday are 11am for the "A" squad and 4pm for the "B" squad.

Entry fee is still just $125 (cash). Re-entry fee is $100 cash. Entrants can register at the event.

There has been a lot of interest this year for the event and we are happy to report that four of the five Glover Champions will be returning to compete this year—PJ Haggerty, Scott Norton, Eddie VanDaniker and Dupree Dickey. Also, PBA Hall of Famer Eric Forkel has registered. And we are getting the interest of several women bowlers who have already said they were coming to bowl including Daris Ruffner, Paula Vidad, Jeanette Adams, Traci Ball and Danielle Daugherty.

Spectators are invited to come watch the action for FREE! We will also have a raffle and winners will be drawn on Sunday just before the Top 5 start the Step Ladder Finals.

On Sunday, the competition begins at 9 a.m. Finalists will compete bowling ten games of head-to-head Match Play with their last round being Position Round. The Top Five will then advance to a Step Ladder Final and the 2015 Glover Masters Champion will be announced around 3 p.m.

For further information on this event, like Don Glover Masters Bowling on Facebook or go to www.geusbc.org. The 2015 Glover Tournament committee is Bette Addington, Zack Newman, Dan BURBANK — There are times I feel pity for those very unusual people...non-bowlers. It may seem judgmental of me, but they come over me whenever I revisit happy memories of my bowling career. Okay, it's not really a career, I just don't know what else to call it.

I reflect on the places bowling has taken me I would not necessarily have chosen to go and found, when I got there, it was a pretty cool place to visit. I realize that when I attend any bowling event, I engage in conversation with more than 10 people I've never seen before. I learn from these people and not just about bowling. So many places and so many new friends.

I often recall fondly, the huge grins and giggles coming from young people who get their first strike or spare. Or how nice I feel when I overhear them as they run to their parents with pride and excitement, "Mom, mom! I just bowled 200!" It's birthday time to me because I know another dedicated bowler is born.

This is how the feeling of pity takes over. So much is out there for you, I say to myself. You don't know what you're missing, I say to myself. If only you'd try once, I say to myself. Suddenly, reality crashes in on me and I say to myself, "Shut up. You're an addict, Silly. They won't get it."

Billy Myers Jr. Shoots 800 to Pace the Brunswick Invitational

by Mike Cammarata

DOWNEY — Twenty teams took to the lanes for the third week of action in the first round of the Brunswick Invitational, and 5 of the 20 were within a game of the lead. Scoring hadn't been as high as it normally is during the first round, as bowlers adjust to the new lane surfaces, but there were plenty of strikes on this night as everyone seems to be getting more comfortable.

On the first pair, Billy Myers Jr. took Team #12 into action against J.A.T. Billy posted 266-255-279 for an even 800 that led the way to four wins for his team. Art Jones added a 721 to help out. Katrina Fujikami was top shooter for Team #1 with 684, but only managed one win.

Going into the night, Team #8 was the other 9-1 team entering the night, and while they didn't have the scores that Team #12 posted, they did enough to win five games though, moving to 14-1 and taking over 1st place. Paul Varela's 732 and Eric Snow's 704 were enough to sweep Team #13. Team #13 was led by Kevin Valmonte with 659 and Kurt Arakaki with 650, but they fall to 8-7 and will need to climb the ladder again.

Team #15 also came into the night 8-2, and had a chance to move up to the first pair, but could not keep up with the scores posted by Team #20. Lee Liu started hot with a sidepot winning 299 in the first game, on his way to a 719 series. David Schiada also helped Team #20 with his 253-256-217/726. Team #15 saw Bobby Hornacek start slowly with 188, but he rallied to lead the team with 279-259/726, edging out Eddie Van Daniker's 719. Team #20 won the match 4-1, and improved to 10 ½ - 4 ½ for the round, staying in contention.

Sysco took to the lanes against Wowo's Smokin' Hot BBQ in a battle of 6-4 teams that turned out to be anything but a battle. Sysco swept all 5 points, winning total pins by over 150. Paul Barraco paced Sysco with a 722 set and was helped by Charlie Kinstler's 684. Jonathan Huevo led Wowo's BBQ with 662, but it wasn't nearly enough to get them in on the board with a win.

Team #18 improved to 9-5, keeping their hopes alive for the round, by beating Alhambra Coin Center 4 games to 1. Scoring was consistent across the board for Team #18, led by Herbert Jones and his 668 set. Alhambra Coin Center saw Doug Kempt blast his way to a 724 series with 244-235-245, but he just didn't have enough help to get more than the one win.

Other good scores on this night came from sub Mikey Villarreal with 254-254-244/752, Dave Kovach 253-243-212/708, Ashkan Tahvildaran 210-286-223/719, Vernon Adams 248-279-247/774, Leonard Ruiz 213-267-299/779, Kevin Gagnon 227-237-268/732 and Matt Mosley 268-233-213/714.

Sidepot winners included Lee Liu with 299 in the first game, Ashkan Tahvildaran with 286 in the second game, and Kevin Gagnon won $216 in the third game super pot with 268.

The Financial Advisors Pot was also won by Ashkan with his 286 game. Vernon Adams and Bobby Hornacek split the 2nd place money with 279.

Scores are coming up just in time for the tense weeks as we get closer to the end of the first round and the battles for position that come with it. See you all on the lanes.
