NATIONAL UNIFIED TOURNAMENT JOINS USBC OPEN CHAMPIONSHIPS IN RENO

by Nick Bonsanto

RENO, Nev. – The Special Olympics National Unified Tournament recently returned to Reno this week to give more than 300 athletes and unified partners from 14 states the chance to compete at the Taj Mahal of Tenpins and help kick off the festivities for the 2023 United States Bowling Congress Open Championships.

The event took place March 1-2 at the National Bowling Stadium, marking the 31st edition of the tournament. The 2023 USBC Open Championships will begin its 143-day run at the 78-lane venue March 4 and conclude July 24.

The National Unified Tournament is unique compared to some of the other events the athletes compete in, and the use of “Unified” in the name helps explain what it’s all about. “Special Olympic athletes get to compete with a community partner in this event, and that makes it truly special,” said event manager Marty Allen.

Each four-player team at the event is comprised of two Special Olympians and their unified partners. The team event took place March 1 over continued on page 5

Bowlers were thrilled with how smooth and fast everything was running with the average wait in line time less than 5 minutes for most of the event with quick results posted to the TAT App and website.

LOREE SMITH REACHES ONE OF HER GOALS AFTER 60 YEARS OF BOWLING

by Randy Gulley

For some bowlers it is a once in a lifetime that they will bowl an honor score of "300". On January 12, 2023, in the Thursday Seniors League at Pahrump Nugget Bowling Center Loree Smith's dream came true. Loree has been bowling for sixty years beginning when she was five years old.

With a 156 average, her first two games were 170 and 169. Then came the 300 for a 639 series. This is the only league she is bowling in this season.

When I asked Loree how she felt after having the 300 game, she stated "it was surreal and a very nice accomplishment after all these years of bowling ". The bowling ball she used was the Forge.

An interesting fact about her bowling ball, which she believes weighs 15 lbs., is that it was given to her by Renee Green last year. Renee saw her struggling with a different ball and thought a heavier ball might be better for her. Also, Loree never did not re-drill the ball; yet she has been raising her average since using the heavier ball. Loree only has this one ball which she uses for her spares as well.

Born in Huntington Beach, CA, Loree grew up in Fountain Valley, CA. She bowled there at Fountain Bowl and many other bowling centers. She has lived in Pahrump for three years after moving from Bishop, CA.

Loree has been married twenty years to Devon Smith who just started bowling about four years ago. When I asked her who her favorite male and female bowlers were she just stated Anthony Simonsen was her favorite, and she really does not watch the PWBA Tour so did not have a favorite for the ladies.

She did state "I am still old school and still have not embraced the two-handed bowlers even though I likes Anthony".

Loree in the past enjoyed assisting in coaching junior leagues.

We talked a lot more regarding bowling and herself and I can tell she loves our sport of bowling just like her parents did before her.

Remembering Park Bowl in Baldwin Park, California

by Dave Williams

It's amazing what you can find on the internet. A couple of my internet buddies the past few years — Tom Knapp from Minnesota, and Bud Horn from Las Vegas — were both involved with Park Bowl in Baldwin Park, California. Tom worked in the pro shop, while Bud was the owner of the location from 1972 to 1976.

An interesting article that's posted by the Baldwin Park Historical Society & Museum states that the location originally opened as Baldwin Park Bowl in the mid-1950's. No one seems to know the exact date of the opening, which remains in dispute, but the all-maple lanes would signify that it probably opened in the mid-1950's, if not before that time.

The article, called Ghosts of Baldwin Park: Baldwin Park Bowling Alley, mentions that the bowling center occupied the east end of a shopping center at the corner of Ramona and Baldwin Park Boulevard. The other anchor store at the west end was a Lucky Supermarket. "There were other little shops in between," states Mr. Horn. "But one of my favorite spots was across the street, at one of the two original In-N-Out Burgers that started in Baldwin Park."

Bud said that he remembers In-N-Out founder Herb Snyder from the Chamber of Commerce meetings held in a banquet room inside Park Bowl (Horn renamed the center Park Bowl when he acquired it in 1972). "We had 32 lanes with a coffee shop, lounge, banquet rooms, pro shop and 6 billiard tables," remembers Bud. In addition to the Chamber of Commerce, the Lions Club also met at the center on a regular basis.

"Our league base was strong, with over 2,000 bowlers," said Horn, a member of the USBC Bowling Hall of Fame. "We had a lot of women's daytime leagues that unfortunately went away when the economy crashed, because all of the housewives had to go back to work in order to keep the family afloat." This writer remembers those days very well when the price of gas doubled overnight. Gas lines became the norm, and it was my job while still in college to get up at 4 a.m. three times per week and wait in line to be sure that all of our cars had a full tank of gas.

Tom Knapp, now a resident of Minnesota, worked in the pro shop during the years that Horn owned Park Bowl. When I asked Tom if he might have any photos of the bowling center, he replied, "The only one that I can remember is of my future wife walking back from the foul line to the ball return, and after 46 years she still takes my breath away."

"The scoring conditions were on the tougher side compared with some other houses in the area," said Knapp. "It was probably because of the all-maple lanes which resulted in many single pin spares. The lane condition was fair on both sides. The flat gutters may also have been slightly lower than the other centers." Tom said that when the economy was hurting and Bud was losing his daytime leagues, he began to provide a softer bowling condition to attract scratch bowlers. "My average went from 195 to about 210 after the change."

The article that appears on the historical society website mentions that Baldwin Park Bowl had actually closed for a period of time and reopened on July 10, 1972, under a new name — Park Bowl. I asked Bud about this, and he replied that was when he purchased the center. "The previous owners had run it into the ground. It was an opportunity for me, and I was successful in recovering the business quickly."

Horn grew up in Los Angeles and bowled in junior leagues with longtime friend and fellow pro bowler Norm Meyers at Santa Monica Bowl. Bud was a regular on the PBA tour from 1963 to 1970, winning two titles and finishing in the televised top 5 finals a total of 19 times. "After all those years on the road, I was ready to settle down, and Park Bowl looked like a good opportunity," said Bud.

After only 5 years, Horn decided to sell Park Bowl due to some personal problems in his life. It wasn't long after that he was approached about managing a new bowling center in Temecula, California, called Rancho Lanes. Bud was there until another opportunity became available with the opening of the beautiful Santa Fe Lanes in Las Vegas, in 1992.

"Santa Fe Lanes had it all," said Bud. "We had 60 lanes, a bar & grill with fresh handmade pizzas, a pro shop and private rooms for birthday parties, meetings, or other hosted events. Within a year, we had a total of 5,000 league bowlers." Thirty years later the bowling center is still known for league bowling. Their slogan at santafestation.com is "League Play That Raises The Bar."

Horn still lives in Las Vegas, where he has retired, like so many other professional bowlers. He has a couple of USBC records that may never be beaten, even with all of the "softer" lane conditions, double voided pins, and bowling ball enhancements: eleven consecutive years of rolling an all events total of more than 1800 (1966-1976); and two perfect 300 games (tied with Tom Jordan), one in 1961 during the Masters, and another in the 1976 Classic Singles event.

two squads, and doubles competition was March 2.

Teams and doubles pairings competed for medals based on their division.

Allen has been part of every National Unified Tournament dating back to its first year alongside the Open Championships in Toledo, Ohio, in 1991. In describing this year's event at the National Bowling Stadium, Allen said, "It's unlike any arena our athletes will compete in. It's majestic."

The athletes and partners who participated this year got to experience bowling on its biggest stage, from the championship atmosphere and high ceilings at the NBS to making their way down the famed Center Aisle to start each squad.

"When they marched on the lanes listening to the processional music, it's truly an Olympic experience for our athletes," Allen said.

The National Unified Tournament could not happen without the unified partners competing with the Special Olympians or the support they receive on the local level.

"They are so important on the local level," Allen said. "They are needed to raise the funds that we cannot provide for our athletes, like their travel. Without them, none of this happens."

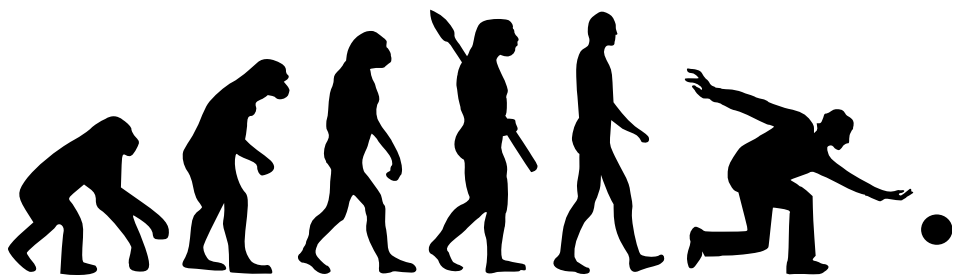

Another key need on the local level is receiving proper instruction, which Allen stated makes the relationship with USBC even stronger.

"Everything the USBC does to promote coaching and learning is a perfect fit with our organization," Allen said. "Our athletes are a big part of the sport on the local level and are USBC members as well."

The tournament historically is held each year just prior to the start of the Open Championships, and it's an important relationship for Allen and the Special Olympics.

"The USBC staff, tournament director and everyone involved are just tremendous to us," Allen said. "They can't do enough for us and our athletes."

The Sunday finals paid out over $300,000 on February 13th with an exciting Championship Match. It was any ones game to win in the 10th and Robert Campagnale struck out to win the TAT Crystal Cup and $20,000. Unfortunately, Bobby did not pay the $10 Progressive Pot to receive the $5,000 Bonus and shot at the TAT Progressive Pot. The good news is the $71,500 will carry over to July where we are raising the 1st Place prize to $25,000 if you are in the Progressive Pot while also raising the VIP Prize list.

This is the first tournament the TAT has paid out over $400,000 in cash & checks with the total payout for the week of $428,500. We also gave out 927 Storm Bowling balls and other Storm/TAT Merchandise throughout the week.

PBA REGIONAL RECAP: THOMSEN, VILLARREYNA AND FRANKLIN GRAB TITLES

by Chase Kaufman

The PBA Tour is in full swing, but the PBA and PBA50 Regional Tour still bring in some big names along the way. South Carolina, Kansas and Colorado hosted events to add regional titles to three competitors' résumés.

PBA50 PARADISE LANES SPARTANBURG OPEN

Chris Johnson started things off in Spartanburg, S.C., with a 300 in Game 4 to propel him to the lead after eight games of qualifying at +284. He held onto the lead after the advancer round to earn a double-bye, but he fell in the semifinals to Michael Painter 204-198.

In the lower half, the No. 14 seed, Scott Thomsen, took a W in his first three matches to earn himself a matchup with Walter Ray Williams Jr. in the semifinals. He kept the momentum going, defeating the all-time great, 235-210, thanks to a late five-bagger. In the finals, Painter started with two splits, while Thomsen began with a three-bagger on his way to earning his first career title.

PBA50 Paradise Lanes Spartanburg Open Final Standings

- Scott Thomsen, 2,500 points, $2,000
- Michael Painter, 1,500, $1,300
- Chris Johnson, 1,150, $950
- Walter Ray Williams, Jr., 950, $950

PBA STARLITE SOUTHWEST OPEN

After the PBA Wichita Classic wrapped up on the PBA Tour, a handful of guys packed up their things and headed towards McPherson, Kan., for regional action. Dylan Burns led the field at +264 for eight games, but Jake Peters, Zach Wilkins and Arturo Quintero sat right behind him. Peters took the lead after the first advancer round and held onto it to claim the top seed for the stepladder.

In the first match, Andres Villarreyna defeated Wilkins 239-233, and then defeated Tomas Käyhkö 247-223 in the second match. Villarreyna continued his run in the finals, taking down Peters 213-164 for his first career title.

PBA Starlite Southwest Open Final Standings

- Andres Villarreyna, 2,500 points, $2,800
- Jake Peters, 1,500, $1,800

Sweetheart Ten Pin Bowling in Loveland, Colo., brought in 51 competitors on the Mike Aulby pattern, where PWBA Hall of Famer Tish Johnson took the lead after the first round of eight games at +246 in her home state.

Tom Hess smoked the field in the first advancer round, averaging almost 250 for his six games. He held onto the No. 1 seed for the stepladder, with Ricky Schissler, Bryan Pogor and Tony Franklin joining him.

Franklin barely slid past Pogor in the first round, 229-225, and then beat Schissler 234-193. Just as the No. 4 seed ran the table in McPherson, Franklin did the same in Colorado, defeating Hess 238-226 for his ninth regional title and first since 2002.
