DOWNEY — The Brunswick Invitational reached the Championship Rolloffs as top-seeded Cal Bowl took on second-seeded Junior Amateur Tour who earned their spot in the final match by defeating Bowlmum in the semi-finals on Thursday. These two teams had battled for the last eight weeks of the regular season with both teams pretty equally matched on the patterns.

The lanes were dressed in a pre-drawn order of 4-3-2-1. The starting pair was drawn and it was determined that the match would start on the fourth pair. The Championship would start on the high-scoring house shot, followed by the USBC Nationals pattern, the long pattern and the short pattern. Should the match go five games, Cal Bowl chose the long-oil third round pattern for patterns.

ANTHONY SIMONSEN WINS PBA TOUR FINALS FOR 15TH CAREER TITLE

Simonsen earns second career PBA Tour Finals victory

by Nolan Hughes

In the final televised PBA Tour title event of 2024, Anthony Simonsen emerged victorious.

Simonsen defeated Marshall Kent in a roll-off of the Race-to-Two title match at Steel City Bowl & Brews in Bethlehem, Pa.

The 27-year-old earned his 15th career title, second of the 2024 season and the first-place prize of $30,000.

On Saturday, the eight finalists competed in two groups based on their point totals during the 2023 and 2024 PBA Tour seasons.

Kent notched the top seed in Group 1, then defeated Bill O'Neill in a rematch of Saturday's seeding match to advance to the title match earlier on Sunday afternoon.

Simonsen earned the No. 2 seed behind Jason Belmonte in Group 2, then got his revenge in the Race-to-Two Group 2 stepladder finale.

The two-hander continued on his path for vengeance as Kent beat Simonsen to win the

Russo Wins 2024 PWBA Southern Indiana Open for First Career Title

CLARKSVILLE, Ind. – Lauren Russo of Ballwin, Missouri, took home her first Professional Women’s Bowling Association Tour title at Blackiston Bowl in Clarks-ville, Indiana, after one of the highest-scoring stepladder finals in recent memory, defeating Jordan Richard of Tipton, Michigan, 267-259.

Russo went up against the former Team USA member and 2023 PWBA Player of the Year in the stepladder title match and the theme of high scores that had been present all event long did not stop.

Russo started with the first six strikes to start the match while Richard had five of six strikes, with only a 10 pin, spare in the second frame keeping her just on Russo’s heels. Russo’s seventh potential strike shot went high, leaving a 6 pin which she converted, while Richard tacked on two more strikes to take control.

In the ninth frame, on what was one of Richard’s best shots of the event, she wrapped a 10 pin and slightly yelled in frustration before running the single pin down. Richard finished first and struck all three in the 10th frame to finish with 259, leaving Russo only needing a strike to win.

Russo quietly stepped up and delivered her ninth flush strike to win and finished at 267 to win and close out the title match as the second-highest combined total score title match since the relaunch of the tour in 2015 at 526. She immediately went to her husband, Matt and embraced him.

“I feel like all the hard work I’ve put in behind the scenes has paid off,” said Russo after her victory. “I have an incredible support system here that pushes me every day to get to this moment, and I’ve been motivated more when things haven’t gone my way.”

Being the first-time champion at Blackiston Bowl is more meaningful to her than one might think at a glance, as Russo’s grandma grew up around the Clarks-ville area.

Russo won the $20,000 top prize and a custom-made trophy of a bourbon barrel lid with the tournament’s name and center wood burned on it. Richard earned $10,000 for her runner-up finish as well as a customized Louisville Slugger bat that has the same information on it as the lid.

The stepladder finals began with Ukraine’s Dasha Kovalova and Erin McCarthy of Elkhorn, Nebraska. Kovalova began with the first five strikes and never relinquished control of the match, even when McCarthy started striking herself, moving on with a 247-225 victory. McCarthy earned $5,500 for her fifth-place finish.

In the second match, Kovalova went up against Shannon Pluhowsky of Day-ton, Ohio, and it was the most exciting match of the finals. Both competitors strung strikes together, but it was Pluhowsky who could end it with all three strikes in the 10th.

She was unable to get the third strike and ended with 245, making Kovalova need her own punch out in the 10th to tie and force a roll-off. Kovalova did just that but left a light 5-10 split while Pluhowsky struck to advance to the semifinals. The Ukrainian earned $6,500 for her fourth-place finish.

The semifinal match pitted Pluhowsky against Richard, where Richard began the match with the first seven strikes while the left-handed Pluhowsky struggled to get good pin carry on the right lane. Pluhowsky left five single pins on that right lane and never was able to get back into the match as Richard ended with a 265 to advance to the finals against Russo. Pluhowsky’s 189 was not enough, and she collected $7,500 for her third-place finish in her fourth stepladder appearance of 2024.

For Russo, the victory was emotional as her grandfather passed away before the season began but knows his support will always be there in spirit.

“I hadn’t seen him since 2018 but he was always saying ‘Hey I got your back, I’m with you every step of the way’, I’m grateful he’s watching everything I do and I know he’s got the best seat in the house.”

All rounds of qualifying and the stepladder finals were streamed live on BowITV. The PWBA Tour now heads to Indianapolis as the U.S. Women’s Open starts June 11.

20th New Mexico Open To Set Records

by Dave Williams

It's hard to improve upon perfection, but it seems that's what proprietor Steve Mackie does every year when staging the New Mexico Open at Tenpins & More in Rio Rancho, New Mexico. This year's event is scheduled for August 16th-18th.

Defending champion Francois Lavoie of Wichita, Kansas, will be trying to join a local star from Albuquerque, John Young, as the tournament's only two time winner. Young was victorious in the first two events back in 2004 and 2005.

Lavoie, who was twice runner up in the New Mexico Open before finally taking home the championship last year, will join a field of more than 200 keglers shooting for a record $76,000 in prizes, with a first place prize of $13,500. Those prizes are based on a total of 192 entries in the event, but Mackie is confident the field will surpass 200.

You have to wonder if Mackie's tournament will someday be a part of the PBA national tour, with total cash and prizes already knocking on the door for inclusion on the PBA senior circuit. During the 2023 season, the PBA50 Tour averaged $83,333 in total prizes per event.

In last year's championship match, local bowler J.D. Nance, who had finished second to Arizona's Cortez Schenck the previous year, battled Lavoie but lost when "Frenchy," a native Canadian, doubled in the tenth frame for a 202-194 victory.

Last year's 3rd and 4th place finishers, Steven Novak of Louisville, Ky., and Fero Williams from Oklahoma City are also among early entrants. Another local favorite is DeeRonn Booker of Albuquerque, who won the USBC Masters in Las Vegas earlier this year.

Mackie reports that following eight game qualifying rounds, the top 32 will return on Sunday for double-elimination bracket play, until only four remain... the unbeaten leader and three from the loser's bracket, to contest the top four prizes.

The Mackie Tournament Magic

Steve Mackie began his legend as a tournament manager while working for AMF in his native country of Australia. I would often hear of his incredible turnouts and marvel at his brochures and pamphlets, including the one I shared last year... Mackie's ten page brochure used to attract sponsors for the 1984 Bowling World Cup in Sydney.

Steve was quite impressed that I had kept that brochure for more than 40 years. I guess no one ever told Mackie that I'm a bit of a hoarder when it comes to bowling memorabilia. Mackie asked if I might send the colorful handout his way, since he didn't have a copy. I obliged by sending him the original... after I made a copy for my Bowling Warehouse Museum in Edison, N.J.

Mackie has not lost his touch in those 40 years. You can ask any of the participants and they will confer that Steve's tournaments are first class when it comes to details. That includes the lane conditions which are provided by former PBA National champ and touring professional Mike Miller. Winning scores for the past nineteen years have ranged from 205-215, making everyone competitive. Last year's winner Lavoie came in with a 210.4 average.

Emil Williams Jr. Will Be Back

Mackie confirmed that Emil Williams Jr. from BowlStreamTV.com will be on hand to cover all the action from start to finish on three different pairs of lanes, as well as the final double-elimination brackets on Sunday. Emil can be heard on the PWBA televised contests and provides a commentary reminiscent of the great announcers in bowling history.

On hand during the BowlStreamTV telecasts will be color commentary by Mike Miller, Dana Miller-Mackie and Steve Mackie. That's a powerful lineup, to say the least. In addition, radio station KDSK 92.9FM will provide a two-hour live remote on opening day. Tournament entry forms are available at www.tenpinsmore.com, or call (505) 891-4462.

PBA Playoffs

Tournament of Champions in April. On Sunday, Simonsen prevailed in a two-frame roll-off to clinch the title.

Simonsen, Jason Belmonte, EJ Tackett and Kyle Troup have now each won the PBA Tour Finals twice. No other player has won it once in the eight editions of the event.

Group 1 Stepladder

In the opening match, Jakob Butturff defeated EJ Tackett, 217-210. Tackett struck on all seven shots on the left lane, but went 0-5 on the right lane.

Butturff split on the right lane himself in the sixth frame, but rebounded with strikes in the eighth and 10th frames to clinch the victory.

Bill O'Neill found no issues stringing strikes, handily taking down Butturff 247-193 in the second match.

The Pennsylvania native carried that momentum into the Race-to-Two match against top seed Marshall Kent, taking Game 1 258-180.

It looked like O'Neill would ride the hometown crowd straight to the title match — until everything flipped late in Game 2.

O'Neill failed to convert the 3-10 split in the 10th frame, opening the door for Kent to mark and force a ninth and 10th frame roll-off. O'Neill opened again to start the roll-off, missing the head-pin twice.

Kent took full advantage of each opportunity, whether it was a fortuitous Brooklyn strike or an error from O'Neill. In the roll-off, Kent utilized a slight loft to strike on the left lane, then buried another strike on the right lane to clinch the win.

Group 2 Stepladder

While Troup struggled during Saturday's positioning round, the two-time and defending Tour Finals champion came out firing on Sunday afternoon. Troup fired eight strikes to start his match against Packy Hanrahan before leaving a pocket 7-10 in the ninth frame.

Troup then ran into Simonsen, who fired seven of eight strikes to start the next match. Troup kept up through six frames, but four straight spares in the seventh through 10th frames ended his repeat bid.

Simonsen kept rolling and fired the front-seven in Game 1 of the Race-to-Two match against Belmonte. He earned a 264-235 victory in Game 1, but fell 255-182 in Game 2.

Belmonte split to start the 9th and 10th frame roll-off, leaving and nearly converting the 3-4-6-7-10. That proved to be more than enough for Simonsen, who doubled to clinch the match.

Championship Match

Simonsen continued to execute his gameplans to near-perfection, firing a clean 246 to take Game 1 against Kent.

Kent displayed a tremendous amount of resilience all weekend, just as he did all season. Despite tearing the skin on his right thumb, Kent fought back to win Game 2 248-200 and force a roll-off.

However, the injury seemed to get to Kent in the roll-off. He whiffed a 10-pin in the 9th frame and immediately grimaced and grabbed his hand.

Simonsen, who struck in the 9th after switching to urethane on the 46-foot pattern, then converted a 10-pin in the 10th frame. Needing nine pins to secure the win, Simonsen struck.

"When you go through an event, you get breaks your way and you get breaks that go the opposite way," Simonsen said. "To get a win over a guy who's been as hot as (Kent) has been lately, sometimes you need a little bit of help, whether it's good fortune on your side or bad fortune on his side in terms of missing the spare."

Kent said his thumb hurt, particularly on the spare attempt in the roll-off, but "it's no excuse."

"I gave it my all on that first shot and I didn't recommit myself," Kent said. "It was more of a mental error on that 10-pin. I did everything I could have. I fought through it and it's okay. Now Simo and I are going to have a tiebreaker title match."

"(This season) proved that I can do it. It's as simple as that," Kent added. "For years, I've been told I can do it and I've had some success. But I've been putting in the work and this year it's been reassuring to myself that I can do this. We'll be back at it working even harder for next year."

Simonsen said he felt like he was stuck in the mindset of "having to go bowl" for the past few years, but found a healthier attitude this season.

"A little bit of a change of scenery and trying to get myself more involved in things off the lanes is helping me to have a better appreciation on the lanes for being able to compete," Simonsen said.

The PBA Tour season continues at the end of July with the Storm PBA/PWBA Striking Against Breast Cancer Mixed Doubles and PBA/PBA50/PWBA Jonesboro Trios.

The season concludes with the PBA Elite League Playoffs in September.

In the first game, it was all Cal Bowl as they took advantage of one of J.A.T.'s bowlers not being physically 100%. The 919-779 win sent the bowlers to the next game with Cal Bowl up one game to nothing. The second game would be on the fourth round pattern, the flatter USBC Nationals Team Event pattern. J.A.T. earned their playoff spot by winning that round, and a strong finish in game two gave J.A.T. the 733-691 win bringing the match even at 1-1. The third game was on the long oil pattern that Cal Bowl dominated in their round win. The game was close, but Cal Bowl held off a late charge by J.A.T. to take game three 740-714 and take a 2-1 lead in the match. The fourth game switched to the short-oil pattern, and Cal Bowl ran away with the game, striking to a 715-642 win to take the league title.

Both teams bowled fantastic all season and it was a great match for all the spectators in the center. Congratulations to Cal Bowl; James Bael, Chris Equilos, Ramon Torres and Leonard Ruiz Jr. on their championship and the $16,000 first place. Kaven Massey, David Yamauchi, Kevin Valmonte and Anthony Santos representing Junior Amateur Tour take home $10,000 for second place. Thanks to everyone for another fantastic year, and we will be back on September 9th, 2024 for the start of another exciting season of bowling! See Page 7.

Who's Going to Provide the Perfect Fix for the Funtimers?

by Fred Eisenhammer

WINNETKA – So what the heck is wrong with the Funtimers league?

Bet you didn't think anything could be amiss at Winnnetka Bowl's largest senior league that has thrived under the watchful eye of league secretary Al Reiswig for the past 20 years.

But there is. So what's the problem?

It can all be traced back to Jan. 30, 2019, when burly, strong-armed Gary Stines ripped a perfect game during his Funtimers action (195-160-300).

Since that date, no other bowler from the Wednesday afternoon league has repeated that feat.

That's zero, zilch, nada, no one! That's absolutely shocking.

That means that it's been more than five years since a Funtimers bowler has rolled a 300, an unheard-of length of time considering the quality of top-caliber bowlers in that league.

And sure, five years is somewhat misleading because COVID-19 closed the Funtimers league for about 15 months.

But still, other Winnetka Bowl leagues rack up 300s like they're turning on a faucet. At Winnetka's Tuesday night Guys and Dolls league, Sami Rice, league secretary, said bowlers roll "a lot" of 300s in her league. "We don't have any problem with that," Sami added.

The Guys and Dolls league, along with Winnetka's other night leagues, do have an advantage over the Funtimers league: youth. Many of the night bowlers are a mere 40 years old or younger, although plenty are over 50 and they're still cranking out perfectos. Funtimers rules mandate that all bowlers need to be 55 years or older. The average is in the 70s. And there are a couple of bowlers in their 90s!

So I feel horrible, being a Funtimers bowler for about six years. My spirit is crushed. I feel as if I've lost my bragging rights for this well-run and people-pleasant league.

Still, I'm hopeful. There are a ton of decorated, dangerous and dead-eye bowlers here. It's just a matter of time before someone smashes a perfect game. And I expect it will be sooner rather than later.

So many Funtimers bowlers have perfect games on their resume; they just haven't bowled one in the last five years as a Funtimers member.

But look at these eye-catching averages of some of these Funtimers bowlers through two months of the summer season:

Larry George, 201; John Drew, 201; Stephen Collins, 194; John Di Pietro Sr., 194; Richard Fumarolo, 193. Additionally, Drew and George have clocked a 258 game; Di Pietro Sr. has smoked a 254; Fumarolo has crushed a 247; and Collins has blasted a 246.

Bowlers tend to have some extreme highs and lows during their weekly (or twice-a-week, or three-times-a-week) appearances. And don't be surprised if a Funtimers bowler, perhaps Stines again, bowls a couple of lower-than-200 games and then finds "his zone" and bangs out a 300.

Look at what 300-candidate bowler Mike Paganelli did earlier this year. A 158-average bowler this summer, Mike slumped to a lowly 98 game in April before rebounding with a 186 in his next game. And months earlier, Mike slammed games of 234 and 246.

Reiswig, the league secretary, says the five-year drought "is too long. It really is. We seem to throw 6, 7 [strikes] in a row and just don't get the final five. I'm surprised no one has done it [lately]. But we have very good bowlers in the league and it'll come."

Reiswig knows what it takes to bowl a 300. He's bowled three of them, not to mention an 800. "Anybody can do it," he said. "If you throw the ball halfway hard and hit the pocket hard – and sometimes you don't even have to. You just got to be lucky."

Reiswig cited George, Fumarolo and Collins as part of a large group of likely candidates to be the next 300 bowler.

But there are so many others who are more than capable, such as Mark Yokomizo, Alex Glikmann, Gary Bricker, Craig Evans, Reiswig himself, Art Rosenberg, Warren McGaha, Di Pietro Sr., Jay Cotton, Saul Jenkins, Hymie Glass, Drew, Carol Ellis, Arthur Sanchez, Stines and on and on.

"People like that are going to get it one day and then I'll have my job to do and get the reward for them," Reiswig said.

The reward is a shiny-new, resplendent 300 ring.

Ask Stines to show his. It's amazing. So this league's Achilles' heel is starting to ache and it's time someone provides the tonic.

Watch for an upcoming California Bowling News story about this topic because that next 300 should happen soon.

The coronation awaits!

The Funtimers senior league has thrived for the past 20 years under league secretary Al Reiswig (kneeling, front left) but has been unable to register a perfect game in more than five years. Said Reiswig: "I'm surprised no one has done it [lately]. But we have very good bowlers in the league and it'll come." Gary Stines (kneeling, front right) posted the last perfect game as a Funtimer on Jan. 30, 2019. Photo by Linda Flaherty
