Inland Empire NABI Champ Mike Vredevoogd

by Quin

RIVERSIDE — Another win for Mike Vredevoogd at Arlington Lanes. We want to thank Arlington for hosting last weekend's tournament; a beautiful house and the staff are great!

Well, 7-7-07 was Mike's lucky day, qualifying for the Sunday semi-finals in the first squad Saturday. His luck held true, as in the semi-finals, he was high qualifier for the stepladder finals. Mike, a grad student at UCR, studying for his PHD. in Geo. Physics does not get the summer off. In-between his school and studying, he bowls a league (Gambler's Fever) at Arlington Lanes, besides bowling NABI. He is looking forward to a little R&R though, visiting family with his wife Kristin.

Mike won this second time with his Track Mean Machine, drilled by Monty at Surf Bowl in Oceanside. He wants to dedicate his win to Kristin, who was at this tournament to see him win. Mike won another champion's shirt, along with $500 and $100 for wearing his NABI shirt.

With the NABI Nationals beginning this weekend in Las Vegas, we will have a "bye". Our next tournament will be held on Saturday, July 21 at Riverside Lanes. Our ad for that tournament will be in next week's Bowling News.

Our stepladder started out with Jeff Taino bowling Guy Clear. Jeff bowled a 195 to Guy's 282. Guy went on to bowl Don Strong. Don bowled a 172 to Guy's 219. Guy then bowled Lewis Redmond Jr. Lewis bowled a 182, along with Guy's 182. However, Guy won with a difference of five pins handicap to climb the stepladder. Guy then met our high qualifier, Mike Vredevoogd. Guy bowled a 190 to Mike's 245, for Mike to win the tournament.

Have fun at the Nationals!

We will see you on Saturday, July 21 for a one-day tournament at Riverside Lanes. See our ad in the next week's Bowling News. Great bowling, everyone!

Barrette Gets Grand Slam As USBC Women's Championships Closes

CHARLOTTE, N.C. - For the third consecutive year, Leanne Barrette made a major impact on the final standings at the United States Bowling Congress Women's Championships.

Barrette won her fourth title in the past three years and her fifth overall as Ebonite Bowlers Map of Roseville, Calif., won the Classic Team title with 3,210 at this year's Women's Championships, which concluded its 82-day run Monday in suburban Charlotte, N.C.

The former professional star shot an 804 series, the second highest series in tournament history, en route to winning the team championship.

Barrette was joined by USBC Collegiate spokesperson Kim Terrell (634), 2006 USBC Queens champion Shannon Pluhowsky (621), Lauren Takahashi (581) and Sandra Terrell (570).

"It's so awesome to win team event, and now I have the grand slam," said Barrette, who won all-events in 1987 and 2005, singles in 2005 and doubles with Takahashi in 2006. "Ever since we stopped bowling on tour, I've been bowling really well in the Women's Championships, and I don't know why."

Barrette's team competed in the Women's Championships on April 25, just days before the start of the USBC Queens. In fact, all the Classic Division winners came during a flurry of activity in those few days.

This is a mystery to me.....

by John Jowdy

One of the great mysteries of the bowling industry is the oversight of our industry leaders to take advantage of the dedicated and grassroots members of our own community. A perfect example of this is the promotional genius and expertise of Joan Romeo. Joan has been involved with amateur and professional bowling for thirty years or so; beginning around the time her daughters Robin and Tori began their professional bowling careers. Anyone that knows her will agree that she is one of most tireless, diligent, and creative individuals in the sport. Many would agree with me when I say that she has been involved in as many, if not more, promotional projects than anyone in the game, primarily using her own personal means.

Joan originally hailed from New York. She is a current resident of Van Nuys, California. She is the mother of five children, including Robin, a 2005 California WBA Hall of Fame inductee, as well as a member of the WIBC Hall of Fame and Tori, also an accomplished bowler. Her oldest son Billy and her son-in-law Steve occupy prominent roles in the movie industry. Steve is married to Joan's oldest child Debbie. Her youngest child, David leads a successful music combo, switching back and forth on several cruise lines all over the world.

Joan's husband Ray passed away in 2000. In addition to being Robin's greatest booster, he had a gregarious personality and was loved by everyone who knew him. Prior to settling in California, Ray was a driving school instructor in New York. In addition to this, he was a tremendous cook, having previously operated a catering service. He was involved in and vigorously supported his daughter's bowling careers.

Joan currently operates her own marketing business, the "Marketing Team". She is an "idea" person; an asset to any group... a classy, creative person who has the ability to organize details like no other. She has been instrumental in promoting Pro-Ams, working with and promoting Team USA through USA Bowling. She developed and produced, along with Jerry Koenig and Elaine Hagin, the first FIQ International Senior Open.

She is the ultimate promoter for any sponsor but, despite her involvement in a myriad of bowling promotions, Joan Romeo has never been offered a permanent and meaningful position in the bowling industry.

A good analogy of utilizing the talent within our sport and one of the most strategic moves made by the United States Bowling Congress was the hiring of Tom Clark, former sports columnist for USA Today. Clark's ingenuity has done wonders for the USBC. (Clark will be featured in a future column) Joan Romeo is cut from the same mold.

At the recent Bowling Writers Association Columbia 300 Press Party and Awards banquet, I had the honor and pleasure of presenting Joan Romeo the Remo Picchietti Humanitarian Award. Not only was Mrs. Romeo deserving of this honor; it was long overdue.

One of Mrs. Romeo talents include event planning; from beginning to end; flawlessly takes care of every detail. This includes arrangement of economical hotel rates for bowlers, writers, and officials attending bowling events in the Reno area. She has close ties with several hotels, including Circus-Circus, Atlantis, and Peppermill.

Mrs. Romeo has over 30 years experience of advertising, production, public relations, event sponsorship and non-profit marketing with such agencies as the Pearlman Group, Jim Terry Productions, Centipede Films, and Grey Advertising. Her representative list includes the Ladies Touring Players Association, Women's International Bowling Congress, Permanent Charities Committee of the Entertainment Industries, Federation Internationale Des Quilleurs, California Women's Bowling Association, and USA Bowling.

The following testimonial was written by Mary Lynly, President of the California Bowling Writers:

"Joan Romeo continues to work for bowling and continually contributes her beneficial attributes to California bowlers. She is now a Director for the California Bowling Writers and sits on the advisory board of the BPAA Foundation. Joan always brings a professional touch to what she does. She allows us to touch and avail ourselves of influential people that would otherwise be difficult to connect with.

"Joan was instrumental in developing probably one of the most successful pro-am events ever held for the first Ladies Professional Bowling Tour at Imperial Bowl in Southern California. Through Jim Terry Productions, she was able to get many Hollywood celebrities and all the ball manufacturers to provide them ball, bag, and shoes. The pro shop donated the fitting and drilling.

As a volunteer, she scheduled, negotiated and promoted four LBPT Tournaments in California. All were televised - Inland Empire, San Fernando Valley, Santa Maria and San Diego. Joan was instrumental in Team USA nationally and in California and supported the state Team USA efforts through the procurement of sponsors and merchandise. During the last several years before the merger, she managed and marketed the National Team USA Finals. In 2004, in Las Vegas, she negotiated getting the Armed Forces involved which resulted in the largest Team USA National finals ever, bringing together 254 finalists from all over the world."

"On May 21st, at the annual CWBA meeting, Joan Romeo was honored at the annual CWBA meeting as the 2006 CWBA Distinguished Service recipient."

This testimonial, issued by California Bowling Writers President Mary Lynly, is an example of how respected she is in the bowling world.

My motivation for writing this column stems from the fact that I have watched Mrs. Romeo's tireless efforts to promote and elevate the bowling game. At this juncture, it seems that someone, or some organization in the bowling industry, would take advantage of her talents and experience.

For me, this over-sight remains a mystery.

Actor, Bowler, 94, Frank Buchanan Set For 2007-08

by Frank Kietz

L.W. VILLAGE — Frank Buchanan, 94, keeps in shape exercising, acting, singing, providing bread for the "poor", teaching and talking about his 80 years in Southern California show business. He can drop names faster than his old side kicks.

Yup, he rode a horse, flipped a lasso, yodel, caught a damsel in distress and shot the guy in the black hat — in the next scene sang to a herd of cattle.

For eat'n money he was a fireman, worked L.A. Station 20 for nearly 30 years. Mayor Sam Yorty presented him a hero's scroll and one for teaching kids fire safety via songs he composed and sang. Yes, he learned to be a gourmet cook.

Since he was 21 bowling was his game. They wouldn't let him in an alley in those days. Since then he has quite a record: a 300 game, in a pro-am "match" beat Earl Anthony, trophies and friends galore. In September at Forest Lanes, he will be bowling two senior leagues, Monday and Thursday.

He's a real trooper. He'll be singing and acting with the Kool Kats July 28 at Laguna Woods Village, Club House One.

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

June 26, 2007

Nicholson Earns 47th Flowers Award

Las Vegas: For years, the 2007 Flowers for the Living honoree has had one of the most unenviable jobs in sports. On June 26, during the 2007 International Bowl Expo, the tables were turned in Las Vegas when all the kudos he earned for doing that job so well and under the most trying conditions netted Len Nicholson the ‘Flowers’ award. It is an honor presented to someone in bowling who is admired, respected and, indeed, loved.

Turnabout, as they say, is fair play. In Nicholson's case, we might add, it was overdue.

Nicholson was part of the PBA's original lane maintenance team, along with Sam Baca. In that role - either with Baca, or individually - he has been involved in analyzing, cleaning and conditioning bowling lanes in more bowling centers, in more cities, in more states, and in more countries than anyone in the history of bowling. The numbers are staggering. He has been involved in doing the lanes for the PBA for over 800 tournaments, which included the National Tour, the Senior Tour and all of the PBA's seven regions.

He has the distinct honor of being the only person to have been in charge of conditioning lanes for every PBA member who is currently in the PBA Hall of Fame. This man traveled the PBA Tour for over 25 years and has worn many ‘hats’ in this sport that he loves. As a result, his insights into bowling are unique and often sought after from his peers.

These days, as host of a 24/7 internet-based bowling webcast, many know Nicholson as ‘The Phantom.’ He has turned ‘Phantom Radio’ into a ‘must hear’ webcast since originating the show in April of 2001. His webcast has attracted a litany of guests and celebrities all across the bowling spectrum in the over 270 shows he's done since.

As bowling Hall of Famer and longtime friend Billy Hardwick describes him, “Lenny was totally crazy but, everybody loves the guy. You can’t help but like him. He’s a man’s man.”

The Sam Levine Flowers for the Living Award was created in 1961 by the late Cleveland Kegler Publisher Sam Levine, and is based on a poem by former Ohio Associated Press editor Fritz Howell. In the poem, Howell suggested that deserving individuals be honored while they were “still alive to smell the flowers.” The award is intended as a surprise to the recipient. Honorees are determined by a special committee of prominent bowling writers. This year’s award was presented by Hall of Fame legend Billy Hardwick, and Bowlers Journal Editor Jim Dressel, former chairman of the committee.

EYE ON ENTERTAINMENT

by Ken Del Conte

LOS ANGELES — Newsflash! Most exciting films of 2007 (so far).

1. AMERICAN PASTIME — In the U.S. Japanese Internment Camps in WWII. A star-crossed Romance, a saxophone and the game of Baseball. This film will make you laugh and cry. It is Pat Morita’s last performance, and it’s a gem. Warner Bros. picked this up for distribution and put it on DVD. Rent it.

2. It’s titled STRIKE — It’s a polish Norma Rae and is directed by a German (Volker Schlöndorff of THE TIN DRUM). Excellent film. Great performance by the lead girl.

3. LA VIE EN ROSE — Though the story jumps back and forth in time too much, the actress who portrays Edith Piaf is amazing. Even when she does not speak, her eyes tell a story... a performance up there with Meryl Streep in SOPHIE’S CHOICE. Which, by the way, is the single Greatest Performance by an actress I have ever seen!!

4. MR. BROOKS — Wow! It’s bloody, it’s original and so well-written by an old pal (Raynold Gideon) that it’s a Must. Costner has become not only great but refined as an actor. The wife, the daughter, William Hurt, are all first-class. Watch the Hitchcock ending; it’s a doozy.

All for now. Keep the popcorn; hold the butter.

LAS VEGAS—By all accounts, International Bowl Expo 2007 was a smashing success.

Staged annually by the BPAA (Bowling Proprietors' Assn. of America), which is celebrating its 75th (diamond) anniversary this year, Bowl Expo was held June 23-28 at the Mandalay Bay Hotel, Casino & Convention Center.

Hall of Fame writer Dick Evans reports that 5,538 individuals attended the '07 Bowl Expo. That's a remarkable 6% increase over last year and included proprietors, bowlers and writers from several foreign countries.

Evans' best comment, I thought, was his suggestion that "the giant Mandalay Bay complex could use walking sidewalks." It must've been a quarter of a mile—at least—from the hotel lobby to the Convention Center.

It was a very busy week for more than 80 members of the BWAA (Bowling Writers' Assn. of America), which was staging its annual convention in conjunction with Bowl Expo.

What made the BWAA Convention and Bowl Expo so successful, to me, were the people there.

It started with the Columbia 300 dinner, hosted by Hall of Famer Jowdy. For decades, this dinner has been the highlight of BWAA Convention week...and this year was no exception.

The reason was the presentation of the BWAA's three most prestigious awards. First, the Rip Van Winkle Award, honoring an individual whose bowling accomplishment has gone unrecognized for 20 years, went to Reg Pearson, the man most responsible for the creation of the National Bowling Stadium in Reno.

This award is being discontinued by the BWAA, causing Pearson to remark that he was happy he was selected "even though I'm the last person to receive it."

The BWAA Remo Picchetti Humanitarian Award was presented to Joan Romeo, who owns a successful public relations and advertising firm, The Marketing Team, of Van Nuys, Calif. Joan, the mother of USBC Hall of Famer Robin Romeo, was so surprised that all she could say was an emotional "thank you" as she accepted the award, which was well deserved.

The Mort Luby Sr. BWAA Hall of Fame Award went to Hazel McLeary. It was also announced that McLeary had been reelected president of the BWAA and Dick Evans was reelected vice president.

Should Evans succeed McLeary as BWAA president at next year's convention in Orlando, Fla., it will mark his third term as head of the bowling writers, a record.

Evans, by the way, was honored at Bowl Expo when he was presented the BWAA's V.A. (Chief) Wapensky Award for his journalistic skills. Not only is Evans the most prolific bowling writer in the country (world?), but he is the ultimate investigative reporter. The guy's a bulldog when on the scent of a story.

Another Bowl Expo highlight was when John Sommer, the very modest proprietor from Rockford, Ill., was presented the Vic Lerner Award, qualifying him as the newest member of the BPAA Hall of Fame.

Sommer gave a heartfelt acceptance speech, which he ended by imploring the bowling industry to back a new women's pro tour. Sommer, who founded the PWBA (Professional Women's Bowling Assn.) Tour, spent $3 million of his own money to finance the tour for two decades before pulling the plug in 2003.

I was delighted when I saw Kim Terrell at Bowl Expo. Terrell was recently appointed head coach of the women's bowling program at Delaware State University, located in the city of Dover.

Terrell is a perfect fit for the job. The native of San Francisco was a two-time All-American at San Jose State, a Team USA member for two years, and won nine PWBA titles, including two majors, the 2001 Women's U.S. Open and 2002 WIBC (now USBC) Queens.

Terrell is also a USBC collegiate spokesperson and served as a junior Team USA assistant coach for the past four years. She plans to continue her USBC duties while coaching at Delaware State.

"Will you have to move to Delaware?" I asked Terrell.

"Yes," she replied, "but I won't mind because my husband works in Washington, D.C., which isn't too far (from Delaware)."

Terrell will do a great job at Delaware State, and I'm predicting that she'll produce an NCAA title contending team within three years.

I had another wonderful experience at Bowl Expo. I happened to be sitting by myself when a beautiful woman asked if it was okay for her to sit down next to me. "Sure," I said...then I did a double-take.

It was Cheryl (Kominsky) Robinson, whom I hadn't seen in more than 20 years. I knew Cheryl when she was about 13 and one of Southern California's top junior bowlers.

As a member of the Greater L.A. Junior All-Star Travel League, Cheryl would write about the weekly high scores. She would bring the stories to me for publication in the California Bowling News, as I was the CBN's editor at the time.

As a vivacious young adult, Cheryl met and married Jay Robinson, a fine bowler who was a member of the SoCal Hall of Fame (as was Cheryl).

For a couple of years, the happy couple owned and operated Hemet Bowl, a venture that was doomed to failure because of an absurd (much too expensive) lease.

Jay went to work for the Don Carter chain, first in Texas and then in Florida. Some time later, Jay was appointed as a regional bowling manager by AMF. But when AMF changed hands, Jay found himself without a job.

Jay wasn't jobless for long. He was hired by BPAA

President Joe Schumacker to run two of his centers, one of which is Jay's current head-quarter near Memphis, Tenn.

Cheryl had some physical problems a few years ago, but I'm pleased to report that she looks radiant. She looks much too young to be a grandmother, which she is.

Cheryl beamed as she showed me pictures of her 11-week-old granddaughter. Of course, both Cheryl and Jay think they have "the cutest baby in the world."

FINAL ITEM: La Habra "300" Bowl, the site of Glenn Allison's 900 series, staged a unique trio team tournament recently to observe the 25th anniversary of Allison's memorable feat.

The event was called the "Glenn (Mr. 900) Allison's 25th Anniversary Tournament" It was open to teams comprised of one senior (50-plus), a junior (18-49) and a female (any age). Certified by the USBC, the tournament was advertised as being "in tribute to that special night of July 1, 1982."

I'm sure that Mr. 900 was on hand to present the championship trophy to the winning team.

WOMEN'S CHAMPIONSHIPS COMPETITORS

TEAM UP TO FIGHT BREAST CANCER

CHARLOTTE, N.C. - For the past two and a half months thousands of women bowlers have contributed to a very worthy cause by participating in a "Bowl for the Cure" raffle at the 2007 United States Bowling Congress Women's Championships.

Nearly $21,000 was raised for Susan G. Komen For the Cure through a raffle during each team squad at Northcross Lanes in Huntersville, N.C.

Participants donated $1 to help cure breast cancer and a chance to win a shiny pink "Bowl for the Cure" Viz-a-Ball.

As one of USBC's official charities, more than $6 million has been raised for Bowler for the Cure since 2000 through various charitable events and fundraisers at the local, state and national levels.

"The Bowl for the Cure campaign has been such a great success this year," said tournament manager Julie Piekarski. "It's heartwarming that so many women have come together for such a worthwhile cause."

Like millions of Americans, Janice Beecham's life has been hit hard by cancer. Her mother, Marabell Pollock, an avid bowler and youth bowling advocate in Florida, fought lung cancer before passing away 17 years ago. In addition, Beecham's 25-year-old daughter, Kim, is a cancer survivor.

So it was only fitting that the Concord, N.C., competitor won the Bowl for the Cure ball Wednesday night at the Women's Championships.

"Winning the ball means a lot to me," said Beecham, an active participant with Relay for Life in the Charlotte, N.C., area. "I always give money to cancer research.

"I was only going to buy one Bowl for the Cure ticket, but a second dollar bill fell out of my pocket. And it turned out that the second ticket was the one that won the ball. Everyone was telling me it was meant to be."

Beecham wore her mother's favorite earrings while competing in the singles/doubles event Thursday, one day before the anniversary of her mother's death. "They bring me good luck," Beecham said.

USBC ANNOUNCES BROADCAST TEAM FOR 2007 U.S. WOMEN’S OPEN

GREENDALE, Wis. - Bowling greats Nelson Burton Jr. and Marshall Holman and award-winning USA Today columnist Christine Brennan have been named as the announcers for the ESPN telecasts of the 2007 U.S. Women’s Open presented by the United States Bowling Congress.

The U.S. Women’s Open will be conducted at the National Bowling Stadium in Reno, Nev., in August and will feature a unique televised bracket-elimination format featuring the top 16 players after qualifying rounds. The first four elimination rounds will be taped Aug. 17-18 and shown Sept. 16, 23, 30 and Oct. 7 on ESPN. The final four competitors will return to Reno for a live televised championship round on Oct. 14.

Brennan, one of the country’s most respected sports columnists, will serve as sideline reporter and essayist. She also is a best-selling author and has worked as a commentator for ABC News, ESPN, National Public Radio and FOX Sports Radio. A leading expert on the Olympics and women’s sports issues, she also is a nationally known speaker. Her latest project is a new book, Best Seat in the House: A Father, A Daughter, A Journey Through Sports.

Burton, a member of the USBC and Professional Bowlers Association Halls of Fame, was part of one of sport’s most famous broadcast teams, partnering with lead announcer and fellow hall of famer Chris Schenkel as color analyst on PBA Tour telecasts for 23 years. Burton has most recently served as emcee for USBC’s Hall of Fame induction ceremonies.

Burton also had an outstanding bowling career winning 17 PBA Tour titles and holds the record for most USBC Open Championships titles with nine, including the 1976 Masters.

Holman, a member of the PBA Hall of Fame, returned to the booth in April as color analyst for the 2007 USBC Queens. He previously served as a color analyst for PBA telecasts from 1996 to 2001.

Holman, the 1987 PBA Player of the Year, retired from the tour in 1996. During his career he won 22 titles including two Tournament of Champions (1976, ‘86) and two U.S. Opens (1981, ‘85).

“Christine Brennan is the preeminent women’s sports journalist in the country and the credibility and perspective she will lend to these broadcasts will be captivating,” said USBC Chief Officer of Marketing and Communications Tom Clark. “Bringing Nelson Burton Jr. back to the booth is a proud moment for USBC and one all bowling fans who enjoyed his unique talent behind the microphone are sure to look forward to. Marshall was one of the most compelling bowlers to watch ever and he can break down the sport as a TV analyst in a similarly engaging way.”

The U.S. Women’s Open, set for Aug. 13-18, will feature a $150,000 guaranteed prize fund with a minimum $25,000 first prize.

Qualifying scores from the U.S. Women’s Open also will be used for the PBA Women’s Tour Trials. The top 16 players who exercise the option of competing in the Tour Trials will advance to compete in the PBA Women’s Series, which will feature four events with a total prize fund of $50,000 for each event, including a top prize of $10,000 and last cash of $1,800.

The championship match of all four PBA Women’s Series events will be televised as part of the ESPN telecasts of Denny’s PBA Tour events scheduled to take place in the first half of the 2007-08 season, with air dates set for Nov. 4, Nov. 11, Nov. 18 and Dec. 2.

Team USA veteran looking to continue his success in international competition

Page, a four-year Team USA veteran, will be joined by fellow left-hander Cassidy Schaub of Polk, Ohio, who will make his international debut at the tournament.

“I’m so used to doing my own thing most of the time - reading the breakdown and trying to stay on top of moves,” said Page, a San Diego native who is in the process of relocating to Topeka, Kan. “It will be fun to have another lefty there with me. That could be an extreme advantage for us.”

The XV Pan American Games, which run July 13-29, are an Americas version of the Olympic Games which includes the Olympic Program sports and others that are not part of the Olympics. The bowling competition, consisting of singles and doubles events, is scheduled for July 23-26 at Barra Bowling Center, a 20-lane facility located in the Barra Shopping Mall.

Happy 89th Birthday

West Coast Jr. Elims

by David Gordon

NORWALK – Things are starting to take shape for the West Coast Jr. Elims – Part II, here at Keystone Lanes. This past Saturday we had our 3rd and 4th sessions with the morning session starting off a touch slow. Some surprises for me as I arrived at Keystone, but like the postings, things got better as the day went on.

In the first session we found Ryan Aguilar back in form to lead the group with his 247-242-277/941 set, Excellent! Additional highs came in from J.D. Pelow 221-235-203-222/881, Jimmy Schmitzer 211-204-265/849, DeeRonn Booker 744, Jasmine Morales248/731, Justin LaMere 214, and Albert Fernandez 208.

The second session found the scoring not as high, but more bowlers making the postings. Here we have a new face Jimmy Schmitzer, coming to us all the way from Riverside and is making his mark quickly. Jimmy put up 247-206-246-202/901 to lead the way in this session. Following is Mr. Pelow this time with 220-211-244/824. And other highs from Booker 223-205/792, Aguilar 201-209/786, Brandyn Roque 204-222/776 (from Redlands – do I hear car pool?), Fernandez 247-222/774, LaMere 200-216/721, and Daniel Munoz 206. So after 16 games into this Part II, we have Pelow atop the leader board at plus 296. Following is Booker, LaMere, Fernandez, Aguilar, and Jon Morales. Remember things can change pretty quick as make-up sessions are completed.

And that leads us in to this coming Saturday. Our normal session will begin at 2:00, followed by make-ups/pre-bowls. There are several that should be taking advantage of this first make-up opportunity and the standings should be different next week. Good luck to those bowling in the state tournament this weekend. Everyone have a good week and I’ll see you on Saturday.

It's Oh-So-Hot But "Mr." Rogers is Oh-So-Cool in Rocky Marsh Doubles

by Joy McGregor

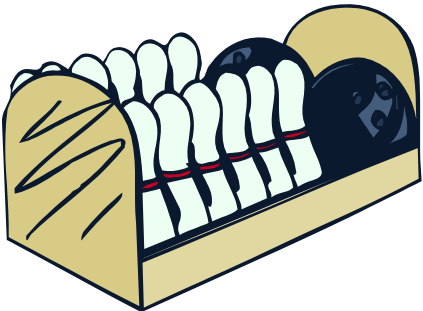

ANAHEIM—Anyone who knows easy-going E.J. Rogers knows he's not only one HOT bowler, he's one COOL dude too. E.J. has the "soft" style and throws a hard ball with such consistency, I do believe he's got that Yin & Yang thang going on... you know, that perfect balance! E.J. started his day rather slowly with a 195 game and then kicked it up a notch: 237-225 and 275, recording a fine 932. This talented "lefty" already holds season high average at 223 and with this latest set, it jumped to a whopping 225. Wow, way to go, E.J.!!

Frank Bellinder, no stranger to the 900 Club and right on E.J.'s heels mastered his pair of lanes, posting a 928 set on games of 268-232-170 and 258. Nice bowling, Frank!

Super sub Tony Hale and last week's headliner is still making the news with his 278-905 series. I think you have retained your "Super Sub" status, Tony!

Carl Adinolfi decided it was HIS turn to join the elite 900 Club and with his fine performance Friday morning, he did just that. Carl found the lanes to his liking, tossing games of 218-264-185 and 235 to record 902. Good job, Carl!

More HOT scores: Ron Corona, jr. 258-890, Jack Wilson 245-870, Bob Gosnell 237-864, Lloyd Thierry 224-826, Tony Chaco 236-807, Rose Williams 212-806, Willie Harris 225-806, Marie Barbush 257, Tony Angulo 247, Ron Mahler 243, Hong Kha 229, John Phillips 227, Roy Coleman 223, Gene Plotnick 223, Roberta McNaught 222, Johnny Munson 221, Gloria Ferulli 221, Rey Ortiz 219, Alan Bloom 217, Shig Shoji 214, Nancy M. Smith 209, Orlando Vanegas 209, Diane Salinas 201 and David McNaught 200. Until next week, stay cool...
