Olympic Dream, Olympic Nightmare

by by Jim Goodwin

JAPAN — For as long as we have been writing about bowling, and that has been a very long time, there has been some sort of effort to get our sport into the Olympic Games.

It's as if Bowling is an inch worm trying and trying to get to the top of a tree; and each time it gets close, a gust of wind casts it down to the bottom. It gets back up and tries again, and again it is thwarted. And again and again in what seems like an endless journey.

On September 28, Bowling was one of eight sports being considered for inclusion in the 2020 Games in Japan. Hopes were very high because Japan is a very friendly place for bowling . . . it is very popular there. And of the eight, they chose five, but bowling was not one of them. We won't name them here because this is not about those sports. It is about bowling and about why it gets so little respect and recognition in the world of sports.

Kevin Dornberger, president of World Bowling, is the current man in charge of bowling's bid for Olympic status; and on September 28 he must have felt like the kid who did not get any Christmas presents.

He confessed to us that it was a very very disappointing day, but he has learned in his many years in bowling not to over react to the bad news, so he put out a positive statement that expressed disappointment but vowed to continue the fight. That is what professionals do.

But don't you just wish that sometime, someone in bowling would shout "We are mad as hell and we are not going to take it any more!?"

Of course, we know Kevin's approach is right, and we greatly admire his tenacity; but at the same time, we just have a hard time understanding why bowling can't seem to catch a break when it comes to the Olympics.

But if we are honest, we know some of the reasons why . . . and Kevin is also honest about how bowling needs to change to have a chance on the world sports stage.

"My view is that we need to concentrate on three areas," said Dornberger. "Image, presentation of the sport (scoring system, spectator appeal, etc.) and attractiveness to youth."

We have heard those things before. In fact, we served on a World Bowling Committee to develop a better scoring system recently. But that is only one step, and it only scratches the surface of what needs to be done in the future.

Many efforts are also underway in youth bowling. Junior Gold has found success; and what the Teen Masters has done is fantastic...but again, it only scratches the surface, and we must not get complacent thinking that youth bowling is anywhere close to where it needs to be and should be.

The big elephant in the room in our view is IMAGE. How long will it take to change the perception that bowling is merely a nice recreation; not a sport at all? Will we ever wake up and realize that we cannot continue to tell people continued on page 9

PJ Haggerty Dominates To Win 4th Don Glover Masters Title

by Bette Addington

BAKERSFIELD, CA — Bowlers from all over California, Nevada and Arizona came to Bakersfield, CA, the weekend of Oct. 3-4, 2015 to join a field of local scratch bowlers to enter the 9th annual Don Glover Masters that was hosted this year at AMF Southwest Lanes. Much to the surprise of the Glover Tournament Committee, the event exceeded the goal of its late founder, Leon Stroope, of hitting 100 entries—with a record 123 entered. But, in addition to that, the event generated a prize fund payout of nearly $16,000! And to top off all this, the event had nine ladies compete!!

PJ Haggerty, bowling in the A qualifying squad on Saturday, started off by bowling the first 300 game of the tournament which awarded him $100 that was donated by Carol King-Glover, who was in attendance this year at the entire event. This was his 74th career perfecto. Haggerty went on to be the top qualifier in the A squad with +394. Joining Haggerty with 300 games on Saturday was Robert Mayo and Mike DeVaney. They bowled in the B squad. Charles Kenny emerged as the high qualifier on the B squad at +331. Justin Ziegler bowled the lone 300 on Sunday in the Match Play Finals. This year's event was bowled on the Bourbon Street pattern.

After Saturday's two qualifying squads (62 in A squad, 61 in B squad), the field was cut to 30 that returned Sunday for ten games of Match Play Finals. Haggerty, who was averaging 256 was sitting in the top position. The excitement was building to see who would make the Top Five for the Step Ladder Finals. Then the Top Five were revealed with PJ Haggerty, again, at the top as the number one seed with +1095 with only two losses, Eddie VanDaniker was second seed at +937 and Scott Norton at third seed (+931), fourth seed Justin Ziegler (+931) and fifth seed, Carlie Medina Carol King-Glover presents PJ Haggerty with his 4th Don Glover Masters title trophy.

III (+883) edging out Gregory Thompson, Jr. by 1 pin.

The Step Ladder first match was Medina against Ziegler and Medina started strong with four strikes, but Ziegler began stringing strikes in the eighth frame and the close match ended with Medina victorious 237-234! Medina then went on to take on Norton in a match of the lefties with Norton starting up by bowling a double but the match went back and forth with spares and strikes until Norton struck out in the tenth and sealed the match 223-181. Norton then bowled VanDaniker which had the top three seeds as former Glover champions on display.

Mason Sherman Named to Ventura County USBC Hall of Fame by Fred Eisenhammer

SIMI VALLEY – He's rolled 81 perfect games and 45 800 series and won two Professional Bowlers Assn. regional titles. He's even knocked down a few 7-10 splits, including one earlier this year. And he's just 30 years old. That's Mason Sherman, the newest member of the Ventura County United States Bowling Congress Hall of Fame.

Sherman received his honor last week at Harley's Simi Bowl in Simi Valley. Sherman joined such luminaries in the Ventura County Hall of Fame as Robert Smith, the powerful right-hander who has won seven PBA Tour titles.

Sherman received his Hall of Fame plaque in a ceremony that was a complete surprise to him. "I think they wanted to sneak attack me," joked Sherman a day after being honored.

"I was so shocked and I still am," added Sherman, a Simi Valley resident. "The words on the plaque and my name on it just don't make any sense.

It's such a big honor."

Sherman, while being modest, ranks among the very top of elite bowlers in the area. He has consistently bowled well over 200 in league play, whether he competed at Harley's Simi Bowl, Del Rio Lanes in Downey, Corbin Bowl in Tarzana, Buena Lanes in Ventura, Santa Clarita Lanes or Mission Hills Bowl.

He set a personal high during the 2012-13 season when he averaged a whopping 243 in a scratch league at Harley's Simi Bowl. "That's like my second home to me," said Sherman about Harley's Simi Bowl. "I grew up at Harley's Simi. I've been bowling there continued on page 8

The Perfect Game by Steve Felege

The Final Word

Over the last two weeks we've covered the Glenn Allison 900 controversy and wondered, "What has really prevented this man from being officially recognized as the original "Mr. 900." It

Rules are necessary and have always dictated conditions under which honor-scores would be sanctioned. The rule which became the bane of Mr. Allison regarded oil application. On the day he delivered the first legitimate 900 series, lane dressing oil was judged to have been applied unevenly. The controversy exists because, as we all know, judges make mistakes.

So, what! Five 900s had been disqualified before his. What makes this one special? Why does Mr. Allison have a legion of supporters, and the prior ones don't? It's because the rules which disqualified the previous 900s made sense. In one case, a 900 was bowled in an unsanctioned league. In another, the three consecutive 300s were tallied in two separate leagues. No information was found concerning the others.

Now consider this: On Nov. 5th and Dec. 3rd, 2005, 17 year old Robert Mushtare pre-bowled, by himself, and shot two 900s. The first was rejected by the USBC on a technicality (The league for which he pre-bowled had not yet been certified.); the second was accepted. Just two and a half months later, on Feb. 19, 2006, he pre-bowled again; this time with a friend. Mushtare shot another 900 and his friend, Jaime Grimm, rolled his first 300. Both (the 900 series and the 300 game) were accepted as legitimate honor-scores.

Why? Because no rules were judged to have been broken; the reason being that no rule even existed which applied to this "pre-bowling" scenario. Fair enough, but this raises issues about the judgment against Mr. Allison. Remember, in his case the ABC officials had judged the oil to be noncompliant, creating a condition which resulted in generally lower scores. But in the case of Robert Mushtare, the oil application was judged to BE compliant even though it:

- > allowed four perfect games out of six.
- > allowed a teenager to roll three 900s in a four month span.
- > allowed this young man to average 259 (around that time).

Here's what the USBC wants us to accept: Under the most favorable conditions imaginable, a seventeen year old can get two 900s sanctioned by the USBC, but a man who dedicated his life to this sport and scored 900 under much more challenging conditions, couldn't get one approved by the ABC. That's unacceptable because, given those circumstances, it makes no sense that Glenn Allison's name should not even appear on the official 900 list.

It leads to the belief that if the same USBC official(s) who inspected Mushtare's lanes had inspected La Habra's lanes on the night of July 1, 1982, there would be no controversy. Glenn Allison's name would appear at the top of every list dedicated to people who achieved the ultimate bowling score. This casts doubt on the fairness of ABC/USBC judging, and calls into question the validity of the scores for every person on the 900 list. That's a lousy legacy for both the ABC and the USBC.

Here's the "rub": Mr. Mushtare's feats would not be recognized today. Why? Because the USBC CHANGED THE RULES! The Mushtare 900s generated so much heated debate that the USBC created Rule 118e which reads, "Unopposed pre or post bowled scores will be eligible for USBC awards except High Score Awards [such as a 300 game, 800 series, or 900 series award]' What does this mean? Simply this: An award that should have been recognized wasn't, and awards that should not have been recognized, were. The only consistency here is the USBCs steadfast adherence to a policy of letting bygones be bygones. Ostriches may as well be running the show! It's time the USBC recognizes what so many of its members already do. It should take the moral/ethical "high-ground" and use its authority to rectify the injustice inflicted on Glenn Allison over 33 years ago. Certainly they can't change the rules from 1982, they can't go back and re-inspect lanes and they can't overturn a court decision which favored the well-financed ABC. But they can and ought to do something. Our governing body is made up of highly educated and creative individuals. They have the authority and capacity to create one simple rule allowing the recognition of Glenn Allison's 900 series, immortalizing his achievement by seating his name squarely atop the 900 list. At the very least, such a rule would make sense.

As bowlers, we shouldn't be concerned about the ability of the USBC to bring this matter to a righteous conclusion; we should be worried about their refusal to do so. The Mushtare case proves beyond a reasonable doubt that the USBC can make rules to deal with controversial issues. What's stopping them now? Are they hiding something?

Was Mr. Allison's 900 over-scrutinized because it was the first? Was it disallowed for the purpose of maintaining the "Holy Grail of Bowling?" We may never know because the California Courts have destroyed it's records concerning this matter, the attorney who represented Mr. Allison has passed, and the USBC has closed their book on this issue.

The USBC is faced with a dilemma they wish would just go away, but it won't. They have relaxed so many rules it is astounding that they won't relax, even a bit, on this affair. But after all, why should they? Perhaps because of this little news nugget: Glenn Allison claimed that Bob Ramirez had shown him paperwork stating the lanes conditions on which he bowled were approved. Bud Pinchot verified one of the inspection sheets had indicated passage, but the inspector responsible for that paperwork was called into a meeting and "questioned" by other ABC officials. Bud didn't remember which inspector that was, but recalled that when his interrogation was over, "he admitted he must have checked the wrong box by mistake." (Sounds "fishy" to me).

The point is, at least one inspector gave the lanes a passing grade and documented it. That alone should be enough to justify the placement of Glenn Allison on the list, even with an asterisk to indicate the controversy. Unfortunately, the USBC has stated it has no desire to revisit this issue

Is it because they fear that adding Allison's name to their list will mean they should also go back and remove Mushtare from it? Nobody is asking for that. My biggest fear is that by the time new administrators come along and do what is right, the action they take will be totally meaningless.

It takes courage to stand against popular demand......when you're right. It takes even more courage to admit being wrong and reverse course. As stated in our last column, the USBC is risking becoming irrelevant as Allison's name appears on more published 900 lists.

By failing to recognize his achievement was a genuine phenomenon, the ABC also disparaged the reputation of La Habra 300 Bowl as an ethical place of business; a real "slap in the face" not only to that bowling center, but to the BPAA as well.

This shortcoming could lead to an unintended consequence. The BPAA could decide to follow through on an age-old threat to create a sanctioning body of its own. How great would that be for this sport? It would result in two separate divisions, just like other sports. Superiority of either side would have to be decided through competition which might result in a long-awaited national championship. Rules committees would have a heyday with this. I can only make one suggestion regarding such an eventuality: The championship award should be named, "The Glenn Allison Trophy".

If you believe Mr. Glenn Allison, now 85, deserves the recognition he has earned, you have the right and responsibility to contact the USBC and say so. Their contact information is:

Phone: 800-514-2695 (Light up their lines!)

Email: bowlinfo@bowl.com (Make their server smoke!)

Correspondence can be sent to: USBC Headquarters, 621 Six Flags Drive, Arlington, TX 76011 (Flood their post office with copies of this article!)

Comments or questions? PÎCK UP THE PHONE!!! Call Carol Mancini @ 1-562-807-3600 (Mondays 2-7 PM PT). Or Email us at: news@californiabowlingnews.com.

As an absolute waste of time*, I would like to challenge our readers to submit their suggestions to the Bowling News (see contact information above) for a rule the USBC could pass which would allow Glenn Allison's name to appear at the top of the 900 list. That would be an interesting column and your comments will be forwarded to the USBC.

*Because the USBC couldn't care less about what any of us opine concerning this matter.

Jeff Boje Interview for BNN October 2015 Past USBC President by Jim Goodwin

How long has the Boje family been in the Bowling business?

Since my dad opened Marboro Lanes in St. Louis in 1959. My Dad leased it in 1979 and moved to Florida; that is how we ended up in Florida. And then we got the center back in 1988 and re-named it Sunset Lanes. It is 24 lanes, but sits on five acres of land. Within a couple of miles of it is Ray Bluth's center; used to be Stan Musial's center, Nelson Burton's center; Dick Weber's center was a little further north. We all got along tremendously.

It must have been exciting growing up in a place where so much bowling history was being made; not to mention the friends like Don Carter and the Budweiser team guys and Stan Musial and all of the baseball greats in that era? And I can see from all of the photos on the walls of this center that you have great respect and appreciation for that history?

I do. And I have though long and hard about that Jim . . . about why that is so important. You could do some research and find a lot, but I think St. Louis is unique in that great bowlers from the team era like Bluth and Pat Patterson and Weber and others were also bowling proprietors; and that didn't happen as much in the other cities. In most places the great bowlers were separate from the proprietors. In St. Louis, they were one and the same.

That's probably true. Off the top of my head, I know that Bill Lillard and Don Ellis built centers in Houston, and I think there were a few in California, but St. Louis has a reputation for being the center of the bowling universe for the sport in the team era. Tell me about your family here in Florida.

I have five children. I have a 23 year old son, a 22 year old daughter, and 16 year old triplets, two boys and a girl. Our little girl has downs syndrome and autism; and she has brought a great deal of joy to our life. She has taught me lessons that I could not imagine.

Everyone who knows you knows how dedicated your family has been and how well you have handled having a special needs child. How is Kristen doing now?

She is great. She is a typical teenager. She taught me to appreciate people for who they are. She has her level; some people say that downs children are the most joyful people around, and that may be true; but one thing they have going for them is that they don't carry the burdens of life on her shoulders like some of us do. But when it comes to things like rolling the eyes and the condescending attitude that most 16 year olds have, she is every bit a typical teenager. She can be very stubborn and argue with me just like any other kid would.

Is Sherry involved in the business?

She helps with the accounting. My sister writes the checks. My Dad and I own Brandon Crossroads, my dad owns Sunset Lanes, and my dad and I and my two sisters each own 25% of this one. There were also centers that we had a few years ago that we no longer have because when we had the triplets, I felt like we needed to reduce the time and expense it took to run them. I think we had 11 centers at one time, and that was just too many.

Knowing you, I'm sure that you don't have this business down to a science and you are still looking for ways to make your centers better, but it sure looks like the hybrid model that you have followed is working because you are enjoying the FEC type revenue while still having plenty of traditional league play. Is that an accurate description?

Yes. It is never a science. And you are right. There seemed to be a big kick for a long time to throw out all the leagues; but we never did. We never jumped on that bandwagon because of what my grandma told me; and I'm sure other grandmas said it too – "make new friends, but keep the old because one is silver and the other is gold."

I agree. It seemed for a while that some operators believed that league bowlers could be replaced with open play and parties, but proprietors like you have proven that you can have both.

Absolutely. You do not need to have one or the other. You just need to pay attention to your schedule. I think in this 32 lane center we have just under 1400 league bowlers, and we value every one of them. One of the secrets is to keep log time employees. We had one lady in my dad's center in St. Louis who retired after 50 years. Imagine - 50 years in the same center! We have a good number of 20 or 25 year employees. And we have many customers that have been bowling with us for a very long time. Some of them are third and fourth generation – which really make s me feel old by the way. And one thing I've learned in my old age is that almost everything I learn is because I've screwed up. If you do a lot, you screw up a lot. Thomas Edison once said something like 'I didn't invent the light bulb before I found about a million ways not to make a light bulb.' I guess what I'm saying is don't be afraid to try new things.

I am hearing that like most successful people, you are a risk taker.

I guess I am. Sometimes, it costs us money, but we always learn something, even if it is simply what not to do the next time.

You were also the first modern proprietor who was willing to sacrifice the time that it took away from your centers to serve as President of the USBC; and you set an example for others, like our young friend Frank Wilkinson, who is the current President. Why did you do that, and what did you learn from that experience?

I have to tell you, I sat and talked with one of the best people that has ever been in bowling just a few months before he died – the great Darrold Dobbs, and I developed a real respect for him. He had a big impact on me. Flora Mitchell, coming from Missouri was another one although I did not know her quite as well. I never saw these people as adversaries. I think because almost all of the proprietors in our area in St.Louis were bowlers, we always thought it was just one and the same. We didn't learn to dislike each other. That background made it easy for me to work with the USBC. They have a mission that is very important; and that is to protect our sport. You mentioned Frank Wilkinson. I want to brag about something. When I was president of BPAA, we started a program called the "Young Guns." Frank got involved because of that program. Nancy Shenk was another one. I was also the guy who got Andrew Cain on the board when others thought he was too young. That is bragging a little, but I am proud of it because I got young people involved who are still involved.

It sounds like you believe in serving and then passing the torch? In mentoring younger people and giving them a chance to succeed?

Yes. It's ironic because I feel a little guilt still being Treasurer; but I guess they wanted me because I have that skill set. I would rather just mentor other people and stay out of the politics. But I need some involvement; otherwise it would be difficult to bring others along.

What kind of report card would you give BPAA and USBC at this point? We know you were heavily involved in creating the International Bowling Campus with people like John Berglund and Frank DeSocio, and you told be in 2010 that it would take at least ten years to work out all of the kinks and stabilize. We are now almost six years down that road. In you view, how is it going?

It may take even a little longer than that. Think about it – we have a culture 100 years. You just don't change that very quickly.

But are they on the right track now? They brought in Upson and Johnson and that really did not work well; but now it seems like the two bowling guys, DeSocio and Murphy have made some corrections. Would you agree with me that it took courage for the BPAA and USBC boards to make tough decisions and change direction?

Yes. And I think that Chad and Frank being friends outside of the office will help too. They seem to have had mutual respect for each other as people even prior to their positions right now. It takes a long time to fix what took 100 years to break. I know there are still people who think USBC should have stayed in Milwaukee, but I think it just had to be done. I am still sad today when I think about the letters I got during the change from people in Milwaukee, because I know a lot of people who worked in that building were hurt. It was one of the saddest things I was ever a part of. They are good people who had families and just could not make the move. I will always remember how tough it was. But there are also others that did make the move and are really enjoying life in Texas. It brought a lot of pain, a lot of tears, and a lot regrets, but I am still positive that it was the right thing to do.

At 52, your accomplishments in bowling are very impressive; but you are still relatively young. What would you like to do next?

There is a lot. There are certain things with special needs children I would like to accomplish. I promised myself that before I die, I will try to strike down the exemption for churches from the Americans with Disabilities Act. That is going to be very difficult, but it needs to happen. There are personal things ahead, and the role I want to play in bowling is to make sure people don't forget history. Don't live in the past – but know our history and be proud of it. Live in the future, but don't forget the past.

Our friend and your fellow Floridian John Davis was fond of saying "those who forget history are doomed to repeat it." Agree?

Absolutely. John was a great man, and that is a role I want to play like he did – remind people to study and respect history. I want to inspire people who are who are in their 30's or younger to speak up. Don't be afraid to offer ideas and don't be intimidated at the board tables. I am so proud of that Young Guns group because many of them have become leaders and many more will in the future.

COVINA — Although a light turnout, lots of fun at Covina Bowl as Chris Slack stepped up and won his second ABTA title taking home a sweet $2,800 to La Mirada for his 2nd win, by downing top seed Duarte's Johnny Sikkens in the title game. He won 4 straight matches in the single elimination Roll-offs!

Cut scores were on lower side but fair to all with Men +60 and Ladies +9! Super Seniors added were Kheim Hoang +38 Sun Sundara +53 and Veronica Boone at +8.

Top Qualifiers were Joseph (Don't call me Joe) Lung +158 for the men and April Griese led that ladies +78. They receive paid entries to any regular event for the fine bowling.

Match Series worth $485 was 493, No Winner, the Mystery Doubles 443 also no winner so they carryover to Action lanes estimated Match Series $1,800 and the Mystery Doubles est $4,100.

The 3-6-9 Pot carried over as only two bowlers got one 9 or better on the first ball to share a $100 Consolation being April Griese, and got a $100 Consolation last standing missed on shot #1 so we go for $1,300 Saturday

The semis began and we saw Johnny Sikkens lead the field +106 and in 2nd was Chris Slack +85 so Johnny will sit out and bowl for the title with Chris entering the top 16 single elims in round two! Top Seed Mr.Slack drew an UNMatchable 282 for the Match Game and UN Matched at $3,730. We estimate the Match Game at $4,800 Saturday at Action Lanes.

It took +59 including 5 ladies in the field to make the Single Elim Finals.

Single Elims now TOP 16. Finalists losing in the first round in 10-16th places were, Jeff Taino, Tom Dahl, Veronica Boone, Wendy Soo Hoo, Michelle Tran, Galdino Chavez, and Eddie Gaddison and they got checks of $100.

6-9th places were Mark Andrews, Christina Cheung, Wilie Parawan, and Joseph Lung getting $105.

Next eliminated Heidi Contreras and Patrick Rodriguez with nice bowling finishing 4th and 5th!

Now down to top 3. Two fine regulars William Ele, and Chris Slack for the right to bowl Johnny Sikkens for the title! In a close game Chris came out on top with William 3rd $200 and Mr. Slack advanced to the title game vs Mr. Sikkens!

The title game was on. After two frames both had a strike and spare. Sikkens again spared in frames 3-4 but split in the 6th, 8 out. Slack took over with a Big 4 bagger frames 3-6 and had a commanding lead. Sikkens tried but could not double although clean the rest of the way.

Slack opened frame 8 and struck out for good measure for a great 237 game and the title was his with such a great showing.

He found an inside shot that worked and it paid off for the

PBA Tour Returns to Omaha/Council Bluffs Area For PBA Xtra Frame Iowa Midwest Open Oct. 9-11

COUNCIL BLUFFS, Iowa - Professional Bowlers Association Hall of Famer Pete Weber will be among the PBA champions who will be on hand when the PBA Tour makes its first visit to the Omaha/Council Bluffs area since 2008 for the PBA Xtra Frame Iowa Midwest Open Oct. 9-11 at Thunderbowl in Council Bluffs.

Several top PBA Midwest Region players, PBA Tour stars and some of the future stars of professional bowling will compete for a PBA Tour title in the 21st stop of the 2015 season.

The Iowa Midwest Open is one of several modified format PBA Tour events that are broadcast live in their entirety on pba.com's online bowling channel Xtra Frame.

Among the PBA champions already entered in addition to Weber, who will be trying for his 38th Tour title are; eight-time PBA Tour winner and 2011-12 Player of the Year Sean Rash of Montgomery, Ill.; 13-time winner and 2004-05 Player of the Year Patrick Allen of Mount Kisco, N.Y.; fourtime winner Michael Haugen Jr. of Phoenix; three-time winners Eugene McCune of Munster, Ind.; Ronnie Russell of Marion, Ind., and Dick Allen of Columbia, S.C. Also in the field will be recent PBA Rookies of the Year E.J. Tackett of Huntington, Ind., and Marshall Kent of Yakima, Wash., along with one-time Tour winner Tom Daugherty of Wesley Chapel, Fla.

Future stars include PBA Southwest Region two-hander Anthony Simonsen of Princeton, Texas; 2015 Rookie of the Year contender A.J. Johnson of Oswego, Ill., and amateur standout Matt McNiel of Prior Lake, Minn., who recently became a PBA member.

Among local favorites entered will be Team USA member and Professional Women's Bowling Association (PWBA) rookie Erin McCarthy of Omaha, who finished second in the 2015 United States Bowling Congress (USBC) Queens tournament. Also entered is Dave Axon of Bellevue, Neb., a three-time PBA50 regional titlist and a competitor on the PBA50 Tour for players 50 years

The Omaha/Council Bluffs area has been a regular host of both PBA regional and tour events. The last PBA Tour event in Omaha was the 2008 Pepsi Viper Championship at Thunder Alley which was won by Brad Angelo of Lockport, N.Y. The last Tour event in Council Bluffs was the GoRving Classic at Thunder Bowl in 2007, won by Patrick Allen of Mount Kisco, N.Y.

Competition for the Iowa Midwest Open begins Saturday, Oct. 10 with eight-game qualifying rounds beginning at 9 a.m. and 3 p.m. (Qualifying times subject to change). The top 16 players will advance to the match play rounds on Sunday, Oct. 11, at 9 a.m. After match play the top four players will advance to the stepladder finals.

On Friday, Oct. 9, a practice session will be held from 3-5 p.m. where bowling fans get can get player autographs and photos. Bowling fans have the opportunity to enter a pro-am which gets underway at 7 p.m. on Oct. 9. Admission is free for all sessions. For pro-am entry information visit www.thunderbowl.com/> or call (712) 328-2374.

Bowling fans who want to sample Xtra Frame can subscribe on a three-day (72-hour) basis for only $3.99. Fans can lock in the entire October package with a full month Xtra Frame subscription for only $7.99. But PBA's best package is the 12-month XF Season Ticket for $64.99, or $5.41 per month. # DON GLOVER continued from page 1

The crowd, which included many of the Sunday finalists who stayed to watch the action, was really getting a treat with these two compete as both came out striking the first couple of frames. Both bowlers had their string of strikes which proved to be a very close match with Norton leading by just ten pins going into the tenth and narrowly edging out VanDaniker 243-238.

The title match between Norton and top seed Haggerty had the anticipation building as both started with a strike but Haggerty got a split in the second frame that he could not convert and everyone was on edge, but Haggerty regrouped and came back stringing seven strikes and that streak was what it took to win his fourth Glover title over Norton 234-226. Talk about exciting to watch! Haggerty, 30, as gracious as ever, was presented his Glover trophy by Don Glover's widow, Carol King-Glover and James McCarter, manager of AMF Southwest Lanes along with his first place check of $3,000. His victory was achieved using the Lock and Hyper Cell Skid and IO Tour bowling balls all weekend. Haggerty shared what winning this tournament meant to him, "Winning my fourth Glover is another notch under my belt. This was the biggest and strongest field this tournament has had and to win it feels great. Bette and her staff do a tremendous job to accommodate the bowlers, giving them snacks and water and there's always someone available when needed. I've been working on my game, more mentally than anything, and to come out on top feels great. My confidence is at an all-time high!" PJ would like to add the following to credit for his strong performance, "First – I'd love to thank the companies who support me. Storm, Roto Grip, Vise and KT Tape have provided me with some high quality products to help me perform at the highest level. Also – my wife, she always keeps me grounded and takes care of our twins when I'm on the road. I've been practicing a bit more to prepare for the PBA Fall Classic as well as the PBA World Series. Lastly, my confidence level at AMF Southwest Lanes is extremely high. I've seen success there in the past and I know my ball will strike when I walk in the door." Haggerty won the inaugural Glover Masters in 2007, & then in 2011 and 2013. 9th Annual Don Glover Masters Tournament Results:

Is it Craziness or Passion? Whatever it is, Bowlers have it by Fred Eisenhammer

WOODLAND HILLS — About two years ago, Cecil Fine, a lights-out league bowler, creaked to the line and tossed a misguided shot that barely connected with

> Throughout that night at AMF Woodlake Lanes in Woodland Hills. Fine continued to throw wild shots that were uncharacteristic of a precise bowler who's averaged in the 180s the past de-

> It was not the Cecil Fine who Woodlake Lanes players had become accustomed to watching. It was easy to see something was ailing the veteran right-hander and it later came out that Fine was suffering from back pains that he was trying unsuccessfully to stifle with medication.

Fine was bowling because he just wanted to spend quality time with longtime friends Ken Borshell, Randy Silverman and Larry Menzer and that was more important than having to endure piercing pain for a couple of hours.

Fine is not particularly a special case. He's just one of a host of bowlers who exhibit a lot of passion for the sport.

It's the kind of passion that so many bowlers have and it sets them apart from athletes in other sports. It's why league players rarely call in sick on their bowling days; they'd rather bowl sickly than sit out a night because they're not feeling well.

These scenarios play over and over each week at bowling

How about ironman Jamie Beeler's refusal to skip his league outing despite suffering from the worst kind of kidney stones

That happened as the Chatsworth resident kept popping Advil to keep him bowling for as long as he could. Fortunately, he survived the night and made it home before he was rushed to the hospital to tend to his super painful stones.

"Nothing keeps him from his bowling," Karen Beeler, his wife, explained. "Nothing."

Can you imagine tennis players being so devoted to their sport? Can you image golfers being so deeply passionate about their game?

Then there's Eric Haugsby's story. The Woodland Hills resident got into a car accident during the day and still bowled later that night despite being shaken up and suffering from bruises and lacerations.

It's called passion. How do you explain it?

Is it just because bowlers don't want to let their teammates down by failing to show? Do they just not want to miss out on some fun for the week that perhaps only this activity can provide? How about the well-documented story of Theo Sojourn, a Santa Clarita Valley resident? How many golfers and tennis players would do what Sojourn did?

He broke two bones in his right forearm in a snowboarding accident, but that didn't stop this right-handed bowler from abandoning the new game he was beginning to love.

Sojourn simply shifted to throwing the ball left-handed, which resulted in several woeful double-digit scores at Brunswick Matador Bowl before he managed to elevate his game. Knowing full well that he would be sidelined a few months because of his injury, Sojourn taught himself a left-handed baby hook and then crushed an electrifying and career-best 240 game only six weeks after converting to his "off" hand.

Would golfers even try such an extreme approach to stay in the game? How about tennis players?

Don't think so. Sojourn risked much embarrassment and perhaps injury by plodding through three months of league play with his left hand just so he wouldn't let his teammates down and he could stay connected to his sport.

That's called passion. Or being crazy. One or the other.

CHRIS BARNES TO UNDERGO BACK SURGERY, WITHDRAWS FROM PBA FALL CLASSIC

DALLAS — Eighteen-time PBA Tour champion Chris Barnes, 45, of Double Oak, Texas, has withdrawn from the South Point PBA Fall Classic and will undergo back surgery next week in Dallas to repair a herniated disc.

"Nothing specific happened," Barnes said, noting an extensive schedule of competition in Korea, PBA Southwest Regional competition and with Team USA in recent weeks aggravated the condition.

"The last time I got off the plane, it hurt all the way down to my shoes," Barnes said. "The pain part is manageable, but I just don't have any strength in my right leg, so it's time to get it

Barnes said the "discectomy" involves trimming a portion of the disk that's leaning on the nerve to alleviate the pain.

"It's the same thing (Dallas Cowboys quarterback) Tony Romo had done and it'll be done by the same doctor, Barnes noted. "Recovery time is a guess at this point, but I'd think the (GEICO PBA) World Series (of Bowling VII) is very much a long shot at this point."

Barnes was scheduled to bowl in the PBA Fall Classic PBA Team Challenge with the 4 POY & A Nice Run team along with fellow past/current PBA Players of the Year Jason Belmonte, Tommy Jones and Wes Malott and frequent POY contender Bill O'Neill. Barnes also was paired with Jones for the Mark Roth-Marshall Holman PBA Doubles Championship. His replacement for both events has not yet been announced.

since I was seven."

Sherman has been described as a "cranker" when it comes to his bowling style and he doesn't disagree.

"I definitely have more of a power game," said Sherman, a right-hander. "There's not much finesse to my game."

Ace bowler Craig Kisro pays tribute to Sherman when he says that he "never leaves anything in the bag when he throws a shot." Kisro adds that Sherman is "100 percent speed, torque and crank on every shot, similar to the golfer who always swings hard off the tee." The night he was inducted into the Hall of Fame, Sherman let his feelings be known in a heartfelt post on his Facebook page. Interestingly, he wrote his post while he was compiling a 700 series. Here is what he wrote:

'I am floored beyond words right now. I had no idea something like this would happen tonight or ever for that matter. Bowling is my passion. I have loved our game since I first started at the ripe age of 7 years old.

"23 years later and I have the same fire and always aspire to better myself and help promote the game where I can.

From the loudmouth, slappy, crazy, different-colored-hair, ear-pierced little butthead I was and still kind of am sometimes . . . I have grown as a person thanks to my friends, my family and most of all, my wife, Andi Garrison-Sherman. You make me the best version of myself.

"You have helped mold me into the man and bowler I have become over the last several years. Your support and love mean more to me than words can explain. Have to thank my father and grandparents for introducing me to bowling. Had to start somewhere and it started with bumpers and my dad teaching me the game I have grown to love. And a special thank-you to all my friends and the amazing talents of our game that have helped me along the way, befriended me and competed with me. Means the world. "Thank you so much to the Ventura County United States Bowling Congress for this incredible honor. Thanks to Dan Mueller and Ed Rogoff for presenting me with this plaque.

'Thank you to Ron Plander for providing a center and junior program that kept me out of trouble and to help excel at this game. Thank you to Buena Lanes for also providing a second home, a fantastic junior program and now the tournament club.

'It is absolutely one of the most cherished awards and honors I have received. "Also thanks to one of my best friends first and my boss second - Rick Soto, for letting me take time off to pursue competitive bowling! "I hope I can continue to help keep the game growing for the next generation. We are all part of the solution. "Thanks so so much!"

Three years ago, Sherman was the driving force behind a bowling fund-raiser that was held at Harley's Simi Bowl for the Leukemia and Lymphona Society.

He came up with the idea as a goodwill gesture for his thengirlfriend, Andi, who was involved in raising funds for the Leukemia and Lymphona Society.

One year later, the two were married. They recently had their first son, named Emmett, who is now three months old.

Said Sherman: "My family is most important to me. When I was younger, it was always about bowling first. My dad was the one who showed me the game. He got me to a competitive level. I hope I have exceeded even his expectations. I can tell you wholeheartedly that it blows my mind I have had the opportunity to compete at a high level and bowl next to some of the best in the world. Bowling has always been humbling and the greatest thing about it is, you can never perfect it. You can always learn something new in our game. It is a reason I love it.

"I have obtained much more from bowling over and above any of my achievements though. I have been given the gift of lifelong friendships because of bowling. I will always thank the game and be proud of the game for that.

"As I have grown older, my career has become a focal point and bowling became secondary as my passion. I met my wife, we were married, we rescued our dogs and had our son; everything I do now is for my family and I couldn't be more thankful. My wife, my son, and my pups . . . they motivate me to no end. I want to be the best for them whether I'm at work, at home or in a bowling alley doing what I love . . . it is all for them.'

Vince Koeller, with his supportive wife Debby, said "it surprised the hell out of me" when he knocked down the dreaded 7-10

'It's the first time in 40 years

I've ever done it'

by Fred Eisenhammer

WINNETKA - "It surprised the hell out of me." So said Vince Koeller, who converted the dreaded 7-10 split last month at Winnetka Bowl. "I went for the 10 pin and after I covered it, it must have bounced off and hit the seven. It's the first time in 40 years I've ever done it," said Koeller, who started bowling when he was 19.

The right-handed marksman from Chatsworth didn't bother checking the progress of his spare shot after his ball sped into the 10 pin. But he quickly heard the good news about what he did.

It gave Koeller another milestone to go along with three perfect games and an 834 series – all of which he's achieved since

So how rare is a 7-10 conversion? Let's just say that it happens a lot more infrequently than a perfect game. Two elite bowlers from Winnetka Bowl's pro shop talked about their own ratio

Said Rusty Bryant: "I have 67 300 games and four 7-10s." Said Karl Kurtz: "I have 46 300s and three 7-10s."

That means the two bowlers have combined to smoke 113 perfect games and have converted seven 7-10s. That represents about one 7-10 for every 16 perfectos. But remember, these are top-flight bowlers.

Less-precise bowlers - through luck or fate or momentary skill – sometimes will claim their 15 minutes of fame when their Hail Mary shot knocks down a 7-10. But a 300 game will likely rest firmly out of their grasp. As for Koeller, it was finally his time for a 7-10 conversion. Said Koeller: "I couldn't believe it."

DARRON PETERS' 843 Sets Senior League Record

by Frank Weiler

MURRIETA — Amazing, astounding, astronomical are bowling adjectives. Darron Peters is AMAZING, astounding and astronomical. Why?

Last Thursday Darron received a last minute call and rushed to Cal Oaks Bowl to sub for Jack Tanner. The 565 Senior Scratch League was getting underway and Darron arrived just in time. That's what friends are for.

Peters arrived just in time. Practice was over and the first game had commenced. Darron rolled his first ball in the first frame of game one. No warm up, no loosening up, no practice. Darron had to jump right into the fire and start bowling.

There wasn't time to go home and to pick up his Menace so without rhyme or reason Darron decided to use his Marvel Pearl. His trunk held only one other ball choice.

Right out of the gate Darron began to strike, strike and strike some more. He never stopped striking. Thirty-two strikes later and he had set a new Senior League record for Cal Oaks Bowl: 843 (265-278-300). Who needs warm ups?

Not only is Darron's 843 a Senior League house record it is also his personal high. He previously rolled 823 on two occasions, the last on the PBA 50 Tour this summer in Fort Wayne, Indiana. Darron has seventeen eight hundreds and Thursday's perfect game was his 49th. Five of his forty-nine perfectos were rolled on the PBA Tour (four regional and one PBA 50 Tour).

Darron's record is NO SURPRISE. In addition to his many Honor Scores, he has spent nearly thirty years in the bowling industry. He has been bowling professionally for years and is a PBA Regional Champion. He has been a lane man, a center manager and run Pro Shops. He currently is co-owner (with ALAN MOJADO) of two ROLLIN' ROCK Pro Shops. One of the shops is in the new Pins N' Pockets Bowling Center and one is in Murrieta across the street from Cal Oaks Bowl.

AMAZING stuff from an AMAZING bowler. Congratulations Darron and thank you BOWLING NEWS for supporting our California senior bowlers.

Get your partners and sashay your way to LINBROOK BOWL for fun, camaraderie, competition and ...BE A WINNER!!!

Please contact the Orange County association office at 714/554-0111 for further details, if needed. See y'all on the

'Honda' Champ Mark Alvarino to Compete in California State Singles Championships

by Fred Eisenhammer

WINNETKA – Mark Alvarino will provide some star power to the 2015 California state singles championships.

Alvarino, the champion of the "Win a Honda" tournament in late July, said he will take part in the state singles event that will be held Saturday, Oct. 17, and Sunday, Oct. 18 at Winnetka Bowl.

Alvarino, a North Hills resident, won the title of the "Honda" tournament by winning both his matches in the event's stepladder finals, which took place at Winnetka Bowl. The first-place finish allowed Alvarino to walk off with the grand prize: a new $20,000 Honda Civic.

"I'm still in shock," said Alvarino this week. "All my friends tell me, 'Dude, you won a car,' and I still can't believe it."

Alvarino said he picked out a white Civic and he remains overjoyed by his good fortune. His former car was a Chevrolet Silverado.

"It was amazing," said Alvarino, a 191-average bowler. "It [used to] cost me more than 100 dollars to fill up the tank and now it costs me 38 dollars. It's so awesome."

The state singles tournament, which is a handicap event, is open to California United States Bowling Congress members. About half of Winnetka's lanes will be allocated for four tournament segments or squads. Players will bowl six games and the entry fee is $50.

Alvarino said he expects to bowl in the state singles segment that starts at 1 p.m. Oct. 17. A second squad will start at 5 p.m. later that day.

On Oct. 18, the two squads will start at 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. Bowlers can field multiple entries, meaning they can bowl one, two, three or all four segments, but they can cash only once in the top 10. At least one prize will be given out for every six entries.

There will be two handicap divisions: a 176 average or higher and a 175 average or lower. Each division will have a separate male and female competition. An optional scratch division is available within each handicap division (separate male and female).

Bowlers need to check in at least 45 minutes before the onset of the competition. Each player must submit with the entry a verification of his or her average via a printout from the local USBC association or www.bowl.com.

This is the third year of the state singles championships. The last two years the tournament was held in Torrance and Visalia.

No we won't stop saying those things, because they are all true, and all are necessary to promote the business of bowling . . . and like it or not, the business drives the sport.

But how about a little or a lot more support for organizations like the PBA and PWBA and coaching and anything else that projects sport bowling . . .and while we are at it, how about a little or a lot more support for the media that publicizes the sport?

According to Dornberger, the good news is that bowling has never been on the short list before, and these days the process has changed so that is does not take millions of dollars to get considered.

However, millions has already been spent in the 80's and 90's, and most recently by Round 1 in the Tokyo effort. What do we have to show for that? . . . a demonstration appearance in Korea in 1988 and a small unofficial appearance in Atlanta in 1996 . . . in other words, not much. Even after this latest setback, Dornberger seems as determined as ever to re-double the efforts for the 2024 Games and beyond.

"We will need the global industry to agree on a strategy and parameters; federation members, the commercial industry, and bowling proprietors," he said. The big questions now are HOW? And WHEN? The Ventura County Bowling Association

BURBANK — Have you considered changing your ball weight lately? Somehow, many bowlers jump to this conclusion before considering what the problem actually may be. After watching the wee ones bowl, you might change your mind! A lighter weight ball still gets strikes.

As a youth coach, my rule of thumb is one tenth of their body weight is about what they can handle. This is not always true though, as the child may not be arm strengthened and just plain old uncomfortable with a ball heavier

A wise, former pro once told me, "Do not sacrifice accuracy for weight". I have kept this tidbit in mind for many years. Case being, as an adult bowler, I have used 12, 14 and 11 pound balls. In that order. In recent years, ball speed as become such an issue with lane conditions, pro bowlers have gone under 16 lbs for speed control purposes. Do they still carry strikes? Yes.

Before thinking of going up or down in weight, consider these issues: Is the drill still right for you? Have you developed a habit that is changing the carry on your ball? What is your personal health situation? Have the oil conditions changed in the center you bowl? (you might just need a different type of ball) By doing a simple check list and consulting with your driller, you might save a little money and a lot of heartache.

Ruiz, Poddig, & Lawrence Perfect As Week 4 is in the Books

by David Yamauchi

DOWNEY — The bowlers took to the lanes for the fourth week of the house shot round and it looks like everyone is getting comfortable with the new lanes and shot. Scores were way up as strikes were easy to come by.

In the "A" match, 14-1 Threadworks took on 13-2 Professional Approach. Pro Approach continued where they left off last week putting up some big numbers as they swept past Threadworks 5-0. Billy Myers Jr. once again led the Pro Approach gang with a nice 772 set while new bowler Justin Garza led Threadworks at 690. Professional Approach leads the round going into week 5.

In the "B" match, Charlie's Sysco team put up their 11-4 record against Lee Liu's Team 20's 10.5-4.5 record. Team 20 was all over the pocket putting up a 2734 total en route to the 5-0 sweep. Juan Zavala paced Team 20 with a 722 set while Gabriel Martinez put up 702 in a losing effort. Team 20 moves up to the "A" match next week against Professional Approach.

Next pair over last week's league leader 10-5 J.A.T. battles Forest Lanes the high of the 9-6 teams. J.A.T. came out striking with a 946-912 win but it was all Forest Lanes after that taking the match 4-1. Katrina Fujikami paced J.A.T. with a 721 set while Jon Diso worked the anchor position for 759.

Keystone Lanes and Eddie VanDaniker's Team 15 met up in a battle of 9-6 teams. Scores worked their way up as Team 15 took the first game 879-862 but that was all they got as Keystone came back with a pair of 9's including a 300 game by Jared Lawrence to take the match 4-1. Arnold Cheesman paced the winners with a 713 set while Eddie Van Daniker posted 731 in the 1-win effort.

A pair of 8-7 teams in Cook's Bowling Supply and Linder's Insurance matched up. Linder's took 4 games as Kurt Arakaki struck to a big 760 set to pace the winners while Matt Schermerhorn led Cook's to their lone win.

Team 10 and Bowlium matched up in a battle of the high of the 6-9 teams. Scott Poddig put up a perfect 300 to start the night and the sweep as Bowlium took 5 from Team 10. Poddig led his home house team with a nice 748 while Gary Duran struck to 655 to lead team 10.

Wowo's Smokin' Hot BBQ and Alhambra Coin Center battled and it was the Coin gang taking 4 from the BBQ boys. George Gauchin put up a monster 767 set for the Alhambra team while Greg Neuer's 699 and Mike Cammarata's 696 weren't enough to take more than one.

Pino's Pizza and Relax-Release-Repeat put their 6-9 and 5-10 records on the line. The Triple-R team was working their team name as they took 4 from the Pizza Gang. Leonard Ruiz Jr. put up a perfect 300 and a 793 set in the 1-win effort while Dean Sanderson led the winners with a 717 set.

Bobby Campagnale's Team 3 met up with Charles Zelaya's Team 5 with both teams sporting a 3-5 record. Bobby finally got blue in the face as he put up a 289-762 set on the way to 3 wins while Charles Zelaya's 677 and Matt Garcia's 676 were enough to take games 2 and 3.

Kevin Gagnon's 3-12 Team 16 matched up Matt Mosley's 1-14 Team 2 in a matchup of the hard-luck teams so far this round. Team 16 was all wins tonight as they swept past Team 14. Kevin Gagnon lead his team with 714 in the winning effort while anchor Matt Mosley was high for team 14 with a 656 set.

Honor scores all over as Scott Poddig, Leonard Ruiz Jr. and Jared Lawrence all put up perfect 300 games. Sidepots went to Bobby Campagnale 289, Leonard Ruiz Jr. 300 ($72 each) and last game to Arnold Cheeseman 275 ($216). Financial Advisor's Pot went to Leonard Ruiz 300 ($220) and a 279 tie between Billy Myers Jr. and Herbert Jones $50 each. Come down Monday night and
