Fred Eisenhammer & Bette Addington - CBW President

WINNETKA — Fred Eisenhammer, from Agoura Hills, CA, was presented the beautiful award for being selected the 2016 Marijane Viat Writing Award from the California Bowling Writers President Bette Addington on December 6, in front of his "Guys & Dolls" bowling league at Winnetka Bowl. Eisenhammer was not notified prior that he was this year's recipient and was totally shocked when it was presented. He received

this award for his article

"Bowling World Mourns

Passing of Kingpin Bill

Mossontte!" Fred shared the following about receiving this award and his bowling writing:

"I'm really humbled by this honor. I feel this award should be shared with all the wonderful bowling personalities that I've met through the years who have inspired me with their feats. Men and women, both young and old, display incredible athleticism on the bowling lanes and most aren't so-called "athletes." But they come to the lanes for a variety of reasons and continued on page 15

E.J. Tackett Wins PBA World Championship

Rising star closes with six strikes to defeat Michigan's Tom Smallwood for fourth 2016 title

RENO – E.J. Tackett of Huntington, Ind., one of the Professional Bowlers Association's rising young stars, defeated veteran Tom Smallwood of Saginaw, Mich., 246-180, to win the PBA World Championship Sunday at the National Bowling Stadium.

Tackett, PBA's 2013 Rookie of the Year, won his first major championship and his fourth title of the 2016 season with a closing string of six strikes after Smallwood lost his strike line on the left lane and suffered two open frames late in the match. Tackett, the top qualifier for the World Championship for the second year in a row, earned $60,000 along with his fifth career title.

"It was the greatest feeling in the world to have my dad here to watch," Tackett said after a tearful embrace with his father, Ed Tackett.

"It was great to bowl a good game to win," Tackett said. "Tom gave me some breaks, which you'd never expect from him, but to throw the last six strikes, to be able to perform like that on a stage like this is what you dream about. It's been a huge breakout year for Tiger Woods of bowling." Smallwood earned his berth in the title match with three consecutive wins, including a 266-235 victory over England's Dom Barrett in the semifinal match. Smallwood, who became a hero among America's working class in early 2010, started the match against Barrett with eight strikes before leaving the 3-6-10 in the ninth frame.

Smallwood's legacy began during the recession of 2009 when he lost his job with GMC and decided to pursue his dream of bowling professionally. He earned an exemption to bowl on the PBA Tour during the 2009-10 season, but

So Who Makes The Bowling News? The Three That Wish You A Striking 2017

The year was 1969 and Carol Jean (Mancini) Woodruff was named the San Diego Bowler of the Year. Filled with pride, Carol packed up her glistening award after winning the coveted honor.

"I came home with a four-foot trophy and my husband (Harold Woodruff) wanted to know what it was for," Carol relayed to me.

That tepid response did not sit well with Carol.

"I said, 'That's for putting a hole in a wall,' and I bashed it against the wall. He didn't like for me to bowl. He thought building radio control airplanes was more important," says Carol with a laugh. "The trophy lasted about an hour."

Her trophy may have been shattered to smithereens, but Carol savored a sense of contentment. No one was going to mess with her love for bowling. And no one has.

That passion is evident today as Carol rules over the weekly California Bowling News as publisher and editor.

Carol and Del Rio Lanes owner Charlie Kinstler purchased the iconic newspaper in 1989. It's now in its 76th year and is the lone weekly bowling newspaper left in California.

for the California Bowling News, specializing in nostalgic pieces that can cross into other sports.

In addition to her editor duties, Carol frequently writes stories

She recently wrote a short story in her inimitable folksy style detailing her brief encounter with Hall-of-Fame golfer Arnold Palmer, who had passed away a week earlier:

"My 15 minutes with Arnold was in 1974 at the Andy Williams Open in La Jolla.

"I was standing on a small hill next to the sixth green watching the men play thru. I looked to the right catching Palmer addressing the ball for his first shot of the 6th tee.

"Whack - the ball headed right toward me. As it got closer, I raised my hand to ward off a hit. Zoom – the ball hit my hand and rolled within four feet of the flag stick.

"Palmer came up and asked, 'Are you OK?' I managed a 'yes.' His comeback was 'Thanks for the save. It's the best shot I've had on #6 all week.'

"How would I not be a fan?"

Carol spends her Mondays shoehorned in a small cubicle with computer whiz Dean Lopez and advertising manager Lillian Oak at Keystone Lanes in Norwalk putting together California Bowling News' weekly scores and stories.

Her bowling commitment doesn't stop with the California Bowling News. Carol also works as office manager of Del Rio Lanes in Downey.

In fact, her whole life seemed to be bowling oriented from age 16 and she fully admits that she grew up as a dedicated

"I didn't do anything else but bowl," she says.

Carol was a powerful right-handed bowler, always using a 16-pound ball until she went down to 15 ½ pounds late in

Carol Mancini savors her role as publisher and editor of the California Bowling News. "I love it," Carol says. "I get to put my nose in everyone's business."

She remembers that she averaged as high as 189 in league play. Perhaps her most memorable achievement came in 1977 when she was part of the California Women's Bowling Assn. doubles championship team at Wagon Wheel Bowl in Oxnard.

She stopped bowling about five years ago. "When I couldn't shoot 185 anymore, that's when I didn't want to bowl," she Carol has also filled plenty of administrative roles and revels in the memory of running Alhambra Valley Bowl.

"I like being manager of a bowling center but times have changed," she says. "They don't do things like we did in the good old days.

"When I was manager, we always had someone in the house that could give a lesson. And every day, I would talk to everyone. You would know everyone, their kids and their averages."

She adds that bowling employees generally don't do their job properly these days, such as cleaning the parking lot before the center opens. "If a manager of mine didn't walk the lanes or check the restroom before they punched in, they were out of there," Carol says. "I wanted the bowling center to be ready when people walked in."

Carol also served as president of the San Gabriel Valley Women's Bowling Assn. "Twice," she emphasizes. "And we had two state tournaments when I was president."

It's no surprise that she's received numerous honors and awards. For instance, she's been named to the halls of fame of the San Gabriel Valley Women's Bowling Assn. and the Southern California Bowling Writers.

Carol also has been named a recipient of the California Women's Bowling Assn. Distinguished Service Award and the Joyce Deitch Trailblazer award. In 2012, she was named to the California State United States Bowling Congress Hall of Fame for meritorious service.

For now, she's focused on keeping the California Bowling News strong. The paper comes out in the print version just once every four weeks now, but more than 63,000 papers are distributed weekly on-line. More and more readers are opening their California Bowling News emails.

Carol, a mother of three (Bette, Wendy and Brian), laments the changes in bowling – how the big companies have taken over the sport and forced out many leagues. "The chains think they own bowling and don't promote leagues, lessons or commitment," says Carol, always a straight shooter. "They only support themselves."

Still, Carol finds plenty in the sport to be excited about. And her enthusiasm shows up in each week's California Bowling News.

So much has changed in bowling over the decades, but Carol Jean Mancini remains as passionate as ever.

NORWALK- Lillian Nobuko Saito, was born in Hilo, Hawaii, raised in Hilo and graduated from Hilo High School.

One of Lillian's favorite pastimes was going to see the volcano during its eruptions.

Lillian moved to California in 1958 and was lucky enough to land a job as a trainee in an employment agency.

Harris Oak came into Lillian's life a year later. It took her another year to say "yes".

They had a daughter, Debbie and a son, Thomas. Debbie is married to John and they have a grown daughter Brittany and son Andrew. Thomas is married to Nora but no

Lillian was happy to be a mother, wife and homemaker - - then along came a friend. Betty Sato was working at the California Bowling News in Burbank and asked Lillian if she could work one day a week - they needed some help.

Lillian knew what bowling was and actually bowled one season in a league.

Lillian graduated from one day a week to 3. Her duties included typesetter, bookkeeper, payroll, posting, receptionist, hostess and girl Friday.

In July 1989 Charlie Kinstler and Carol Mancini purchased the historic record of bowling.

Her current title of advertising manager does not reflect her assets. Everyone who calls recognizes her voice and is quick to response to her enthusiasm. And who could say "no" to her inquiring about a Christmas ad?

The Bowling News owners, employees and readers are blessed by knowing her.

NORWALK — Arthur Dean Lopez, typesetter and assistant editor is a Southern California native, born in Covina and raised in West Covina. At age 13 Dean was introduced to bowling. By age 17 Dean was working at West Covina Lanes.'

Along came computers and Dean jumped into the "biz" - - - he bought 'em, sold 'em, serviced 'em and even worked for Apple for a short time. But - - - bowling was still an attraction and he went to work at Del Rio Lanes. Thru the years he graduated from part time to full time to assistant manager until the Bowling News "went computer". Twelve years later (over 600 issues) his expertise has carried the News into the 21st century computer world.

Angel Addict - Dean Lopez

His wife of 15 years, Karen, was a great bowler and enjoys a good game of poker at any Casino. Dean's son Arthur is grown and lives out of state.

Dean no longer bowls but has awards for six 300's and an 802 series.

In his case, the word "assist" translates to "asset".

This is an example of why the chair was removed from behind the control desk at Del Rio Lanes! . . . lol

For Johnnie Englehart, Bowling Can Wait This Time by Fred Eisenhammer

WINNETKA - Elite bowler Johnnie Englehart has racked up another three perfect games in 2016, making it 66 in his career.

Just another ho-hum year for Englehart?

Not exactly.

When Englehart looks back at 2016, he won't be dwelling on his multiple 300 games. Rather he will be savoring a side trip he took in mid-August that landed him in Bullhead City, Ariz. Driving with him on that hot afternoon from the San Fernando Valley was Susan Moline, whose name would change that day to Susan Englehart.

"We traded lives and vows and away we went," said Englehart, a resident of Winnetka who was wed in a polo shirt and shorts.

Englehart, 58, said that "no one knew" of his plans. "Surprise!" he said.

Bullhead City was just

Johnnie Englehart and the former Susan Moline had a rather long courtship before they married. She is now Susan Englehart.

a stopover for Englehart en route to Laughlin, Nev. There, Englehart would bowl in his Winnetka Bowl league's Sweepers competition.

Before Englehart embarked on his trip to Laughlin, he learned that Bullhead City had a chapel and was a mere 10 minutes away from Laughlin. So for this longtime Valleyarea superstar, bowling actually played second fiddle - to his wedding.

Recalling that memorable day on Aug. 19, Englehart said he and his wife agreed that he would "get down on one knee and all that crap. We got rings that day. She told me she'd be happy just going to City Hall and grabbing some witnesses and doing it that way."

Their courtship spanned

Or as Susan corrected, "It was 12 and a half. You can't say we rushed into it. It wasn't a whirlwind thing. We did it when it was right and that's what matters."

Susan has been an offand-on bowler who has witnessed about 20 of her husband's perfect games.

She remembers the first time they were together and "everybody was going crazy" around Johnnie. When she asked what was going on, Englehart replied that he had just bowled a perfect

"A 300. That's good, right?" she remembers asking him.

"That was my first experience with a 300," said Susan, laughing.

Susan is now aware that Johnnie has set his sights on an extremely rare feat bowling 100 perfect games and 100 800 series. "I'm counting on it," she said.

Johnnie has rolled 67 800 series, although none so far this year.

Susan also recognized that she got more than an ace bowler as a husband.

"He's pretty awesome," she said. "I got a good guy. I'm a very happy girl."

started his career, he never dreamed of reaching the hall of fame. "Most of the time I just wanted to get out there and bowl against those great bowlers," he said. "But when you win a couple of times, you start to think, man, wouldn't it be great? But I honestly never thought I'd win two titles, let alone 10. I was bowling against Walter (Ray Williams Jr.) and Pete (Weber) and those guys, and they're so awesome." Hoskins retired from PBA Tour competition shortly after winning the 2000 Lone Star Open in Pasadena, Texas, and said he's never looked back.

"That was a nice phone call (from PBA CEO and Commissioner Tom Clark)," Hoskins said. "It's been an odd scenario, but it was a matter of being patient.

"I'd be remiss if I said I didn't think about (getting into the hall of fame)," he added. "When you're in your teens, you thing about it, but you never believe it'll happen until you get out there and find out. It's a constant test of your ability. When you get there, it's incredibly satisfying but humbling at the same time.

"Looking back, it was quite an interesting career; I actually quit at a fairly young career, but it was a personal choice and I don't regret it one bit," Hoskins said. He currently owns a car lot and works for a sub-prime auto lender, a field he entered right after retirement.

"After I retired, I bowled for years with my father, but when he had to quit due to arthritis, I gave it up, too," he said. "Now I play softball and golf, but every now and then, I do get the itch to go bowling." Scroggins, like his fellow electees, was more than a little surprised.

"I can't believe it," he said. "It's something you always wish for, but then you don't believe it'll happen. It's what you dream about when you're a kid. You want to win a PBA title, and then you say, you want to be in the PBA HOF. Now it's true and it's unbelievable.

"I'm just so honored to be in with the people who are in the HOF now," he added. "As you get older, your body kinda doesn't let you do the things you want to do, but I'm going to keep going as long as I'm able to be competitive."

BIG BOWLING - BAD FOR BOWLI

by Frank Weiler

"In the beginning God created the heavens and the earth...the earth was without form and void...then there was light and it was good...then there were the fishes in the sea and the animals on the land...then there were men and women..." Then the men and women

Then the bowlers got together and organized. First there was the American Bowling Congress (ABC) then the Women's International Bowling Congress (WIBC) and then The National Bowling Association (TNBA). Then the the ABC and the WIBC merged and became the United States Bowling Congress (USBC).

Bowling Alleys sprung up throughout America and before long they organized as the Bowling Proprietors Association of America (BPAA). Corporations got involved and came to own hundreds of "Alleys". More and more Americans took to the lanes and before long there were millions of sanctioned league bowlers.

Then Bowling Alleys became Bowling Centers. These centers added game rooms, hosted birthday parties and began to look away from league bowlers as their main revenue source. League memberships dropped and the new USBC reduced it's benefits as it raised it's dues. More league bowlers dropped out and bowling centers closed their doors in droves. Then the BIG BOWLING Corporation bought up hundreds of bowling centers in America and in other countries.

Now BIG BOWLING has a near monopoly on bowling in many parts of America, including where I live and bowl. As a result, things are changing for league bowlers like myself and my teammates. Unfortunately these changes seem to be for the worse.

BIG BOWLING appears to me to be BAD FOR BOWLING. Everything that is happening and being done in the two BIG BOWLING centers that I bowl in appear to be against the best interests of league bowlers. Changes which affect pricing, services, quality, youth, community, marketing and building the sport all are affecting league bowlers

BIG BOWLING or corporate controlled bowling is all about profits and the bottom line. Corporate leaders see bowlers as sheep who love to bowl so much that they, myself included, will show up and put up with most anything to get their fix of bowling. They are not worried about losing league bowlers. Like the old Kevin Costner movie about baseball, these corporate leaders feel WE WILL COME no matter what.

The result is what we are experiencing now in my area: increased pricing, reduced services, less quality, less for our youth programs, less community outreach and involvement, less marketing and less efforts to build the sport by supporting USBC. Let's take a closer look at each of these areas.

At the BIG BOWLING centers I bowl in PRICING is going through the roof. The price of food and drinks are up twenty-five to fifty percent. At the same time the quantity of food is less. I haven't counted the number of french fries in my latest combo but they sure cover a smaller area on my plate than they once did. The hot dogs look smaller as do the hamburger patties. At the same time It appears that bigger buns are COVERING UP the smaller meat products.

Get ready folks, the seven dollar hot dog is around the corner! Corporate knows there is no problem with that, bowlers are willing to pay for quality. The gourmet pickles and real French Dijon mustard are worth it.

What about the price of bowling? Open bowling is up to six dollars a game with a ten dollar price tag rumored and maybe just around the corner. If the number of recreational bowlers begin to outnumber league bowlers look for league lineage to go up. This season we only experienced a modest increase in league lineage while the independent center I bowl in had no price increase in league lineage.

One of the big reductions in league benefits this year was the reduction in practice benefits for league bowlers. A few years ago all league bowlers received three free practice games of bowling everyday. Now that BIG BOWLING has taken over we get two free practice games a week per league. That's a big downgrade in our league benefits.

BIG BOWLING is cutting back on employee hours and the number of employees. Hence, SERVICE is down. At one of my centers there is no mechanic on duty during the day, until four in the afternoon. That means if there is a mechanical problem during the daytime it won't be fixed until later. Bowlers either have to move to another pair of lanes or bowl a make-up. Also, our rest rooms don't seem to be serviced as often as in the past.

Personnel turnover seems to be greater now with new desk personnel seeming to appear on a regular basis. While most of the new people are cordial the feeling isn't the same as the old days when desk personnel were around for years and knew your name. The personal touch is being lost.

In addition to many of the problems I mentioned above, the second BIG BOWLING center I bowl at has drastically cut back it's operating hours. Daytime hours are pretty much a thing of the past. Also, their operating hours sometimes change without notice. One day they will open at eleven in the morning but then change to one o'clock in the

The QUALITY of our lane conditions is way down this season. Ninety percent of our bowler's averages are down this year. In my leagues half of the bowlers are averaging ten to over twenty pins lower than last year. This includes my scratch league that boasts nearly a dozen PBA bowlers and PBA Champions. It appears that the centers I am bowling in are cutting back on lane maintenance by oiling the lanes less and not cleaning the lanes. Also, there are rumors that the houses are using lower grade oil.

I have also noticed that it seems that less emphasis is being placed on our YOUTH PROGRAMS. One of my centers has no youth program whatsoever and the other has a very small one. The center with a program never uses the youth products available from USBC. Alarmingly, they do not participate in the USBC Volunteer Certification Program.

When it comes to COMMUNITY OUTREACH and MARKETING I see very little at my BIG BOWLING centers. These centers seem to operate in a world of their own. Any events they host which do involve the outside community are a product of their league bowlers initiatives and not generated by center management.

Finally, I see little effort by BIG BOWLING when it comes to BUILDING THE SPORT. They never host local USBC tournaments and they do not allow the local USBC Association to advertise their local tournaments, which are being conducted in independent centers in the area. Cooperation with the local USBC Association minimal.

While BIG BOWLING may be good for business, IS BIG BOWLING BAD FOR BOWLING? Yes, it is beginning to look that way to this league bowler.

As I wrote above, I believe these BIG BOWLING executives are taking bowlers for granted. I also believe that because bowlers love to bowl so much and are so dedicated to our sport these corporate executives will get away with fleecing us.

more importantly, won the 2010 PBA World Championship for his first title and a $50,000 prize.

Smallwood, with key strikes when he needed them, eliminated 19-year-old Anthony Simonsen, who failed to carry strikes at critical opportunities, in the first match, 204-193. Simonsen, a two-handed player from Austin, Texas, was trying to become the youngest player to win two major titles in the same season after winning the United States Bowling Congress Masters in February.

In the second match, Smallwood rebounded from an open second frame with a string of five strikes, building a lead Australia's Jason Belmonte couldn't overcome. Belmonte, the three-time reigning PBA Player of the Year, saw his hopes for his first title in 2016 die when he left the 3-4-6-7 split in the ninth frame and failed to convert, losing to Smallwood, 224-185.

The PBA World Championship was the final event of the 2016 PBA Tour season. PBA competition resumes January 10-14 when a field of 16 PBA stars will join 16 Japanese players in the DHC PBA Japan Invitational in Osaka.

Western Pacific Runs Away With Round 2

round with Western Pacific pocketing the title and a spot in the post season with a win over DV8 to take the round. The short pattern with variable carry down kept the scoring pace low but spirits were better knowing that the 45' Kegel pattern was just a week away.

In the "A" match, 17-3 Western Pacific Bowling Supply took a 4.5 point lead into their match with DV8. Raul "Spanky" Rosales cemented the round with a 224 to start the night and take all the drama out of the match. Western went on to sweep through DV8 led again by Spanky's 610 series while Kevin Valmonte led DV8 at 566.

In the "B" match, it was a Smirnoff and Herzog battling for wins as they were both mathematically eliminated from the round. Smirnoff took games 1-3 and totals for a 4-1 win to end the round. Lee Liu led Herzog with a 554 set while Vernon Adams went huge for Smirnoff with a league-high 703 set.

A pair of proprietors matched up as Charlie and tough-luck 19-11 Sysco who was sniffing the round for weeks met up with Billy and 18-12 Bowlium. Bowlium came out striking and never looked back as the swept straight through Sysco 5-0. Steve Brode led Sysco at 502 while Billy Myers Jr. struck his way to 603 for Bowlium.

Center vs. center in the next match as Cal Bowl and Forest Lanes battled. Cal took a close game 1 by less than a mark and game 2 by 50 but dropped game 3 by enough to lose a hold on totals and Forest pockets the 3-2 win. Chris Eguilos led Cal at 535 while Jon Diso bounced back off a tough game 2 to lead Forest with a 512 set.

With 10th place first-round winner Parkin's moving to the bottom of the matches, Erickson's Food got Keystone Lanes. Keystone came out strong taking game 1, dropping game 2 but bouncing back to take game 3 and totals for the 4-1 win. Jonathan Huff led Keystone 579 while DeeRonn Booker once again paced Erickson's Linder's Insurance was looking for some coverage against Los Altos Trophy in a battle of 14-16 teams. Linder's came out strong, and the long oil begins next week!

DOWNEY — The Brunswick Invitational wrapped up the short taking games 1 and 2 and totals for a 4-1 win. Nick Rodriguez paced Los Altos with a 545 set while sub Ryan Cunningham led Linder's at 553.

> G.J.C. Janitorial paired up with Century 21-My Real Estate in the 14th vs. 15th match. Century 21 came out striking taking games 1 and 2 but dropped game 3 for a 4-1 win. Joe Jimenez paced Century 21 at 581 while Kevin Jones' 538 was high for G.J.C.

> Two groups of veteran bowlers J.A.T. and Threadworks went face to face far down on the sheet. J.A.T. was consistent throughout the night taking all 5 from Threadworks. Paul Varela was strong for Threadworks at 585 while Larry Campbell led J.A.T. with a 571 set.

> Professional Approach, Crown Royal and Gym W.R.A.T.T. Fitness rounded out the matches with Pro Approach and Gym bowling Crown's scores in the round-ending system. Crown Royal was strong taking 5 points in a sweep of Pro Approach while Gym W.R.A.T.T. dropped all 5 to Crown's scores. Matt Schermerhorn led Pro Approach at 561, Johnny Sikkens was solid with 623 for Crown and sub Mike Derb led the Gym guys at 422.

> First round-winners Parkin's Bowling Supply was bumped to the last pair to stay out of the round battle. Buddy Lucas was solid with 556 for Parkin's but they drop all 5 to Western Pacific's scores. Both sidepots went to Vernon Adams (269 and 237) for $144 with the Super Pot to Lee Liu (229) for $216. Financial Advisor's third game pot went to Vernon Adams (237) for $200 and 2nd Jeremy Glover (230) for $100.

> DeeRonn Booker takes the entire Clean-30 pot for $530 as nobody else went clean the entire round. Strikeout pot was carried over and will remain at $1000 with well over $1500 in the stand-by pot. Come out Monday night at 8:30 and watch the best scratch league in the area take the lanes at Del Rio as Round 3

THE POWER WITHIN - BECOMING A PROFESSIONAL BOWLER

by Frank Weiler

The most important ingredient for success in any endeavor is the power within. Success depends on YOU harnessing your inner strength and applying proven principles necessary for success. These principles apply to every endeavor in life including bowling. Anyone wishing to become a better bowler, including all YOUNG BOWLERS wishing to become professional bowlers, should read on and apply the following principles.

CHARACTER and INTEGRITY. First and more important than anything else, character and integrity are a must. Professionalism demands YOU stand for something. Personal standards are a must because "YOU WILL RISE TO THE STANDARDS YOU SET FOR YOURSELF". Doing what's right is just as important as winning. Anyone pursuing a career in bowling, particularly those wishing to become professional bowlers, should realize that the cornerstone of all personal and professional relationships is TRUST. To gain the support of others YOU must earn their trust. Trust is earned slowly and the process begins as others observe your words and actions. Your words and actions are you. You are your words and actions

People notice when you always strive to do what's right. They notice when you are honest, dependable, consistent, fair and respectful. They notice and will respect and trust you. Trust is a must. When people trust you, they will work with you, help you and support you. You will need the help of others if you're to succeed. Best of all, right minded people are happy people and do better at getting along with themselves.

KNOW WHERE YOUR'RE GOING. Millions of people never accomplish anything significant and never reach any special destination in life because they don't know where they're trying to go. If you don't have a destination how are you going to get there? If you don't have a destination for your career, for your life, how are you going to head in the right direction? How are you going to make plans?

Several decades ago a long term study was conducted by a very prestigious university in Boston. Graduates were polled and it was found that only three per cent had any clear goals for their future. Twenty years later it was found that the three per cent of graduates with clearly defined goals accomplished more and made more money than the other ninety-seven per cent combined. Goals and plans are important. If you are to be successful you have to set goals. You need short term and long term goals. You need to know where you want to be in one year, five years and ten years from now. Don't worry about changing circumstances. There is nothing wrong with making changes to your goals as you go. Be flexible. The important thing is to think about where you're going and start planning on how you're going to get there.

The best plan is a written plan. Write down your goals, your plan for achieving those goals and the time frame in which to achieve them. Think about your goals everyday and act on your plan.

One more thing about goals and plans. Don't be afraid to DREAM. You need to have dreams. The bigger your dreams the better. Goals come from dreams. You are never too old to dream and the first step to success is setting your heart on achieving your dreams.

TOTAL COMMITMENT. You have goals, you have a plan. So what's next? Now you have to act. You have to change from being a dreamer to being a doer. You have to change from someone dreaming of becoming a professional bowler to someone committed and working at becoming a professional bowler. That means bowling, bowling and more bowling.

Most people never totally commit to a single pursuit. They spend their time dabbling in numerous activities and never achieve excellence in any one activity. Most successful people focus on one pursuit and dedicate all their energy and efforts to the success of that pursuit.

How did Earl Anthony, Don Carter and Norm Duke become PBA Champions and Hall of Famers? Total commitment to working hard at becoming better bowlers. Anthony, Carter and Duke were known to practice sixty or more hours a week. Norm Duke's mother told me that when Norm was a boy she couldn't get him off the lanes. Norm would practice everyday after school. He would bowl for hours even while his bowling hand was bleeding. As a boy, Norm had a goal to beat Earl Anthony and win a PBA Championship. Years later he became the youngest PBA Champion ever, beating Earl Anthony on national television.

There is no fast and easy road to success. Every achievement has a price tag - HARD WORK. Bowling once a week in your local youth league is not enough. You have to bowl after school as many days a week as possible. The benefits of hard work are many. From my experience, "THE HARDEST WORKING BOWLERS ARE THE LUCKIEST". Other benefits include a boost in enthusiasm, increased consistency, greater confidence and improved stamina.

FUN, DESIRE and ATTITUDE. If you're going to commit to bowling be sure you love the sport. Be sure bowling is fun. Bowling can be humbling and there will be more losses than wins. You have to enjoy the sport, for it's own sake, if you are to commit to those odds.

If you want to be a professional bowler for fame and fortune please reconsider. Unlike most careers, professional bowling provides more setbacks than successes. Professional bowlers are lucky to win one PBA Title in a year. Most only win one or two titles in their career. The best may win ten titles and only a few win twenty.

Going on the assumption that you have the talent and skill to be a professional bowler you better have fun bowling. The minute bowling becomes work is the minute you will struggle on the lanes.

If you are going to be a professional bowler you better want to be one more than you want anything else. That desire will make the hard work fun. That desire will make a difference between winning or losing a close match, that desire will help you keep going when things are not going well. Success begins with attitude, a positive attitude. Think positive and work on inculcating positive thoughts. "DON'T LOOK FOR EXCUSES WHEN YOU BOWL POORLY, LOOK FOR REASONS". When you identify the reasons for your failures you can find solutions for future successes. A positive attitude is more than reveling in victory, it is accepting defeat gracefully and looking for a path to winning the next game. It is dwelling on what you can learn from today's setbacks that will lead to advances tomorrow. It is forgetting what went wrong and remembering what went right.

A positive attitude will give you the confidence needed to win while a negative attitude will only lead to finding ways to lose. A positive attitude leads to winning habits while a negative attitude leads to losing habits. Your Attitude can make a difference between winning or losing. Finally, when you do lose, a positive attitude will help you to bounce back.

EXPECTATIONS and FAILURE. You get what you expect. Muhammad Ali was probably the biggest proponent of great expectations who ever lived. He always expected to win and he never kept his expectations to himself. He shouted loud and clear "I am the greatest, I am the champion, I am going to win". Muhammad accomplished what he set out to do nearly one hundred percent of the time. Without being boastful you need to expect the best. If you don't expect the best you won't strive for the best and you cannot obtain the best. How can you obtain the best if you don't strive for it. Don't be afraid to fail. Winners take chances. Every winner has experienced defeat and learned to pick himself up and get back into the arena. Don't waste time and energy worrying about things you have no control over or events that may or may not happen.

they continue to distinguish themselves in this sport we love because they have so much passion for the game. It's truly awesome to see so much passion from people from all walks of life. They come to the lanes to bowl and share this passion and they create friendships that often last forever.

Bowlers have made my job the easiest one in the world by being so generous with their time and answering my questions.

I enjoy writing about not just the top bowlers but the unsung league bowlers, both men and women, who come to the lanes to show they still "have it" at age 50, 55, 60, 65, 70, 75, 80 and much older. Bowlers never cease to amaze me. I just wish I could bowl better.

Inspired by the honor, I bowled a 214 – my season high – in my first game of league play. Then I crashed back to normalcy with moremy-speed scores of 135 and 139."

BURBANK — Is anyone ready for the Holidays? I used to be one of those people who had my Christmas cookies in the freezer right after Thanksgiving. The only thing left for me to do by this time in December was to start wrapping the presents and keeping my boys from shaking the dickens out of every one of them. I don't even know who that person was any-

As I got busier with other things, like bowling four times a week, I became more and more of a Christmas minimalist. Presents are rarely given with bows and the cookies are likely to get purchased at the last minute. Scrooge, I am not. Rather a boiled down version of my Merry Christmas self. However, at league, you might catch me wearing my reindeer antler headband and a light up necklace!

If you're rushing around, go easy on yourself. Christmas happens no matter how prepared you are. Sunday Night: (scr) Mike McMahon 244, Vickie Maas 173, Joel Arciniega 677, Danica McMahon 479. (hdcp) Matt Licano 275, Yesenia Eras 246, Dave Hansen 763, Elie Hernandez 694.

Scores are in, so until next time...keep the ball rollin'!

Don't let fear control your game. When you bowl scared you make mistakes. The best antidote for fear is preparation. Prepare for every competition. Preparation for the lane conditions you will be bowling on, preparation for the transition you expect and preparation of your equipment you will use are vital to maintaining your confidence and controlling your fears.

WINNING. Don't choose a bowling career unless you plan to win. Winning is a personal choice and YOU WILL WIN WHEN YOU DECIDE TO WIN.

A few years ago Walter Ray Williams Jr. told me he had to learn to win. First he had to learn to make the cut, then he had to learn to win during match play and then learn how to win on television. I think he meant that he had to learn to have faith in himself and his abilities. That he had to learn to have the determination or THE WILL TO WIN. The will to win is deciding to win.

It took Walter Ray four years on tour to win his first tournament. He has gone on to win forty-seven titles. He learned to win, he beat the best. WINNERS ARE MADE, NOT BORN.

Finally, BALANCE and PERSPECTIVE. There is more to life than bowling. Your pursuit of a bowling career should not be an end in itself. It should be a means of living a balanced and fulfilling life.

While becoming a professional bowler, a winner, and a champion will be an exciting journey it should not be the sole purpose of your existence. There is more to life. Ultimately, your happiness will depend on maintaining a balanced life with equal emphasis given to the spiritual, emotional and physical.

About the spiritual. I am not going to tell you what to believe or not believe. That's a personal decision. I will tell you that if you don't develop some principles to live by you will eventually have to face life's crisis on your own. People with a moral rudder tend to handle difficult times better than those without such guidance.

You need family and your family needs you. Remember, you are you because of the nurturing and support you received from family and friends. They were there for you when you were nobody and you should remember them if you become somebody. Don't deny yourself the love, support and pleasure family and friends provide.

Good luck, good bowling and the best in your pursuit of a professional bowling career.
