Goldie Gets His Ball (For Christmas)

by Frank Weiler

SAN BERNARDINO — His favorite color is gold. His two front teeth are gold capped and he drives a gold Cadillac. His name is Goldie.

He has been bowling for fifty years and is one of those old goats who loves to graze (hang out) at our local bowling center. Like Darwin, Faeno and Huey he is always there. Like those other guys Goldie knows bowling. He is part philosopher, part analyst, part herald and all bowler. Everyone loves Goldie.

I don't know why everyone calls him Goldie (ho, ho, ho) but I do know what he wanted for Christmas last year: a gold colored bowling ball. A ball to match his gold socks.

For years his friends didn't know of his wish because he never spoke of it to anyone. It was his secret and sometimes the obvious isn't so obvious.

Last year a close friend bought Goldie a drink during a league session in October. It was Goldie's birthday and everyone was in the mood to celebrate. Our golden boy seldom drank but after a couple he opened up and started "sharing." It was during the chorus of "He's a jolly good fello" that I put my hand on Goldie's shoulder and whispered: "If you could have anything for Christmas, what would it be?" Goldie put his head down, took a long look at the carpet underfoot and shouted: "I want a gold bowling ball for Christmas".

For the next month we looked everywhere for a gold bowling ball, without success. When we heard that Brunswick made the Gold Crown about thirty years ago we went online. We found that the Gold Crown contained real gold chips and cost $1,000. We love Goldie but! Christmas 2012 passed.

As this season began our plan was to get an old rubber ball and spray it gold. We hit the thrift stores and soon found a nice Manhattan Rubber for $1.99. That ball really took to paint. We didn't even have to prime it.

Seems that soft rubber may be more absorbent than particle encrusted polyurethane! Especially after soaking it overnight in a bucket of acetone plus.

While our concoction did a pretty good job, we sure would have liked to have Mr. McCune's formula. After drying we sprayed the ball with two coats of metallic high gloss gold. Finished, the ball shined like a garden "Gazing Ball."

Guess what? After all of that, we heard of the new Storm Gold IQ. We had to have it. We knew that Goldie deserved more than a Gazing Ball. So "Goldie Gets His Ball." Next week at our league holiday party we will make Goldie's dream come true. He will receive his gold ball for Christmas.

MERRY CHRISTMAS everyone.

Inspired Ciminelli Wins PBA Chameleon Championship

New York left-hander overcomes Viper disappointment in third World Series of Bowling V event

LAS VEGAS — Ryan Ciminelli of Cheektowaga, N.Y., converted disappointment into determination, winning the Professional Bowlers Association Chameleon Championship for his second PBA Tour title with an inspired 258-203 victory over England's Dom Barrett.

The third of seven telecasts from PBA World Series of Bowling V at the South Point Hotel and Casino complex aired Sunday on ESPN. It again featured the use of "blue oil" to help fans see the otherwise invisible lane conditioning pattern. The Chameleon pattern was applied to 43 feet compared to a 35-foot application for the Cheetah Championship and 39 feet for the Viper pattern in previous weeks. The Scorpion Championship, which will air December 22nd at 12:30 p.m., is a 47-foot pattern.

Ciminelli, bowling in the wake of a bitter loss to Chris Barnes in the Viper Championship title match, when he left a 7-10 split in the final frame, started his battle against Barrett with three strikes and never trailed. When Barrett closed to within two pins after five frames, Ciminelli threw another string of five strikes to race away with his first title since winning the 2011 Earl Anthony Memorial.

"It was tough to put (the Viper) behind me, but I decided to use it as inspiration instead of letting it get to me," the 27-year-old left-hander said. "I felt really good. I broke the lane down the way I wanted to and created some room for myself.

"I knew the (right) side really wasn't that good," he continued. "I knew if I stayed within myself, 220, 230 would probably win.

"The second title feels better (than the first)," Ciminelli added. "It's been too long. You know you can win after the first one, but you wait three years and you begin to ask yourself if you're a one-hit wonder. So now that's off my shoulders."

Barrett, who was the top qualifier for the Chameleon stepladder finals, was a bit confused at the start of the match.

"I didn't feel like I made many bad shots, but my ball reaction didn't look very good," Barrett said. "One time it would hook, the next time it would go straight. It's not the kind of scenario you want going into a title match against someone who was throwing the ball as well as Ryan was."

Barrett insisted the blue oil had no bearing on anything, echoing Ciminelli's sentiments.

"I think when you get to a certain level, your ball is your guide," he said of the colored oil. "You've grown up reading ball reaction. That's how we make our decisions. That's how we win tournaments, so any visual aid out there might be great for TV or young bowlers, but when you get to this level, it doesn't matter. We're going to use information available to us like pattern length, the type of oil, the lane surface. All of those things make a huge difference, but visually, we're going to read ball motions. We know what we do.

"If you paid too much attention to (the blue oil), you'd Bowling News is proud to bring you....

Chuck Pezzano

Dean of Bowling Writers, PBA & USBC Hall of Fame

This guy swaggers up to me and says, "Bowling is a stupid game."
"Oh yeah," said I.
"Oh yeah," said he.
"Why?" said I.
"I'll tell you why," said he.
And with all the nice stuff out of the way his mouth was off and running.
"Two bowlers are working on a strike. The first rolls a gutter ball or gets two or three off on his next ball. The other bowler throws what looks like a perfect ball, but the 10 pin doesn't go down. If they both make their spares, the score is exactly the same even though the first bowler's performance can hardly compare with the effort of the second."
I told him, "You're all wrong. Things aren't what they seem to be. It all evens out in the end. If a bowler keeps rolling bad balls on strikes he'll leave tough spares and will miss many of them. And if you keep the ball in the pocket you'll get more than your share of strikes. It's like the baseball player who hits line drives right at an opposing player. Sooner or later, they're going to fall for hits."
I thought I slowed him down a bit but he came right back, saying, "And you bowling writers, always talking about how many pins a bowler knocks down. You never get it right."
This attack raised my ire and in defense of all the over-worked and underpaid bowling writers in this world (all three of them) I meanly asked, "And what do you mean by that?"

He quickly countered my question with his own. "How many pins does a bowler actually knock down when he rolls a 300 game?" I quickly figured 12 strikes times 10 pins equals 120 and told him so.

He smiled. "So the most pins you can actually knock down in a game is 120. Yet, one bowler can knock down 120 pins and score a 300 game while another can knock down 120 pins by recording nine spares and a triple in the last frame, and all he can shoot is 202 at best."

He was wound up now and kept going. "When a bowler finishes with a 650 series you writers often say he knocked down 650 stricks, had total pinfall of 650 or some other phrase that adds up to the same thing, that a bowler knocked down 650 pins. He never did. He may have knocked down only 270 pins and scored a 650 series. So why don't you bowling people wise up and say a bowler scored 300 points or 650 points instead of saying he knocked down 300 or 650."

He pushed on. "Who devised this system of bowling scoring?" Has anyone in bowling ever analyzed what I'm saying and thought about changes?"

My adversary was getting to me and whether he had a point or not, he was stabbing pretty good. I weakly defended our position on scoring, telling him that it was such a basic standard that changes in scoring would create havoc and added that it had stood the test of time just fine until he opened up. I had little defense in regard to pinfall and reluctantly agreed that maybe we should say points instead of pins.

I finally had to resort to my "get you off the hook" phrase. Whenever a sportswriter friend of mine receives a nasty or critical letter he jots off a note to the sender, saying, "Maybe you're right." That's what I told this critic.

He went away happy and left me in a quandry. The thing that really got me was the simple fact I hadn't thought of some of his criticism long before he brought it up.

It would have made a heck of a column.

SHORT SHOTS

 If you ever feel that you know all the answers to the wide world of bowling, stop kidding yourself. It would only be because you haven't heard all the questions.

 You often hear about an untimely split popping up. I don't ever recall anyone running into a timely split.

 An older league bowler won the admiration of all the other bowlers in his league when he went back to school to study languages and through great sacrifice in time and money, obtained an advanced degree. He felt those 10 years of night school were well worth it when he was the only team captain able to put his team's lineup down in Latin. And he continued to feel great about the whole thing until that fateful day when he walked into his bowling center, and on one set of lanes a doctor's league was bowling, right next to the priest's league.

2	3	6						5
7		9	6	4
	2						5
				5	9	7		4
5						1	4	9

 A bowler had just given his young son a long account of the part the father had played in his team winning the championship. The small boy pondered the words for a minute, then asked, "Dad, why did the team need those other four guys?"

 If some bowlers were as smart as they think they are, they would realize they couldn't be.

 Though bowling seems to be essentially the same, there are constant changes in equipment, both personal and in the bowling center. In fact, if you stay away from bowling 20 years or so, the only thing you'd recognize when you came back would be the excuses.

 It's said that all the bad scoring days in bowling will even out, that they will happily be matched by an equal amount of good days. All I can say is that most bowlers I know have an awful lot of good days coming.

BOBBY WILLIAMS Isn't Waggish

by Frank Weiler

REDLANDS — When Bobby Williams takes to the lanes he is serious. No waggishness from him. Upon entering a bowling center he zips his smile, tucks his chin and puts a chip on his shoulder. Place ten pins in front of him and he wants to knock them down. Put a bowling ball in his hands and he wants to bruise some maple sticks. He is living proof that a nice guy can bowl.

He is living proof that a nice guy can finish first. LEO DUROCHER be damned.

When I think of Bobby Williams I think longevity, consistency, and excellence. He has been bowling at a high level for so long I can't remember how many years have passed since he first averaged 200. I only know that if the truth be told we are talking decades not just years. Yes, Bobby Williams is old enough to have bowled well for decades. That's longevity. Speaking of consistency, how about Bobby averaging over 200 for twenty consecutive years. Speaking of excellence, not only has Bobby averaged over 200 for decades, he has averaged over 230 many of those years.

Over the years Bobby has rolled many honor scores and he still holds the EMPIRE BOWL record series of 870. On that record setting night Bobby was just two strikes short of 900.

It has only been a couple of years since the 870 series and Bobby continues to score. Using his Lane One Buzz Saw and Storm Crossroads he recently rolled two 300s, a 290 and an 837 series. "WHEN YOU'RE GOOD YOU'RE GOOD" and Mr. Williams is Good.

Congratulations Bobby and know that you are a lucky guy to have a wife like SHERRY. Thank you BOWLING NEWS for supporting Citrus Belt senior bowlers.

If you are like me, you are scrambling to be ready for Christmas. Every year, same thing; when will I learn? On the rare year when I am done early and ahead of the game, I somehow feel cheated. This could be a cause for therapy! Two things are important to me this time of year. Spending joyful time with my family and gifting my bowling buddies. Don't forget yours this year...check out the Pro Shop at Pickwick.

NATIONAL DEAF BOWLING NEWS

by Connie Marchione

MACMONAGLE 871, JONES 259 LED DEAF TRAVEL AT CANOGA PARK

WINNETKA — Southern California Deaf Traveling League does not bowl at Canoga Park Bowl often but the bowlers like the center for its high scoring lanes. The league's stop there last Sunday was fruitful as Leroy MacMonagle's 871 led 4 bowlers with 800's and the day's honor roll of 10 bowlers. In all the league averaged season best 178 plus.

MacMonagle's 871 with 193-204-247-227 for his season first 800, is long overdue. League President Ed Abakumoff jumped with games of 257-247 with good chance of hitting 900 or 1000 but his strike ball abandoned him, finished with 159-199 for 862. Andy Lorenzo was fortunate to be the only one to hit four 200s that day with 202-211-231-202 for his season best 846. The proud Dan Flores already with his 300 ring from USBC for his perfect game made in the league's last session at Gable House Bowl, did the day's couple beauty with 234-182-234-182 for 832.

The rest were Gorman Low failing 800 again with 9 pins short 791 (246-169-209-167), Bob Jones struggling in his former favorite center with first two 157-158 and finally found the right ball to finish with 214 and the day's high game 259 for 12 pins short 788, Jeff Stansell with poor start 160 and finished with 236-177-195 for 768, a lady Celia Salcedo finally crashed in the honor roll with back to back 208-218-148-169 for 743, tied with the same 743 (196-181-192-174) by Bob Taylor and lastly, Connie Marchione with (200) 711.

Incidentally Bob Jones found his right ball in 6th frame to finish with 7 strikes in row 215 and the front 5 strikes in his 259 for the so called Varipapa 300. The late showman Andy Varipapa famously known for bowled hundreds of 12 strikes or more between two exhibition games.

The day had two team 600 games bowled by teams facing each other. In first game Low's Riverside hit 619 with Low's 246 and Abakumoff's 257 only to have opponent Stansell's Mid City beat them in 2nd game with 622 with Lorenzo's 211, Paul Taffolla's 175 and Stansell's 236. Mid City still holds the season high team game 640.

Also Jones' Eagle Rock hit the day's high team series 2242, just 14 pins short of Riverside's season high team series 2256. Celia Salcedo hit the new women's season high game 218 and women's season high series 743.

League leader Eagle Rock beat Orange County 15-5 to retain its lead. Mid City lost 9-11 to Riverside and exchanged places with Anaheim, a 14-6 winner over Flores' S F Valley. Eagle Rock's lead is still close with Anaheim is 3.5 back and Mid City 7.5 back.

The League thanks Canoga Park Bowl management and staff for the excellent scoring condition. The center has new owner and is undergoing improvements.

The league wishes all Happy Holidays and will resume bowling after New Year on January 5, 2014 at AMF Cerritos Lanes.

be ignoring the facts of what you've been doing all week. Ball motion is far more important."

Ciminelli, the No. 3 qualifier coming into the Chameleon finals, ran away from Tom Smallwood of Saginaw, Mich., in the first match, 255-197, and was equally impressive in eliminating Brian Kretzer of Dayton, Ohio, 235-179, in the semifinal match.

The Chameleon telecast also included the third of four special PBA League Challenge segments in which the eight PBA League franchise players are demonstrating their skills in unique competitions. In the "Obstacle Bowling" round, players tried to knock down as many pins as they could by throwing three shots through or around an obstacle course of rubber pins positioned at intervals down the lane.

BROOKLYN STyLES franchise player Sean Rash won the competition in a one-ball roll-off against Pittsburgh Jack Rabbits' franchise player Osku Palermaa after they tied at 28 out of a possible total of 30.

"The obstacle course was fun," Rash said. "I'm pretty good at throwing it hard and straight off the corner, and hooking it as much as possible. You were just trying to hit a target, draw a line and throw it hard, and I was able to come out on top in that one."

"Visually (obstacle bowling) isn't much different than what we do," added Chris Barnes, who represented the Silver Lake Atom Splitters and tied for second with a 27. "There is always (an invisible) sand trap or a tree that you have to avoid, but physically you can't see them represented like (the rubber pins)."

Next Sunday's Scorpion Championship finals include top qualifier Marshall Kent of Yakima, Wash., an amateur and a Collegiate All-American at Robert Morris University-Illinois who was invited to bowl in the World Series on a PBA Commissioner's Exemption; Smallwood; Josh Blanchard of Gilbert, Ariz., and Tommy Jones of Simpsonville, S.C. The telecast also will include a PBA League "TO" Challenge in which NFL all-pro wide receiver and PBA League Dallas Strikers owner Terrell Owens will make a shot and a randomly-selected player will try to exactly match TO's pinfall.

A post-finals look at the Chameleon Championship and a preview of the Scorpion Championship, along with other features, will be available Monday on "The Bowling Center" on YouTube.com. Xtra Frame subscribers who may have missed Sunday's telecasts will be able to watch the finals "on demand" in the Xtra Frame archives three days after the original show airs.

ROUND 3 - WEEK 1

by the singing Christmas Carol
DOWNEY — Round Three got under way on “Long Oil” Monday Night. Unexpected ball re-actions were evident. Spectators didn’t have to watch where the ball went or how many pins were knocked down, the result was in the expression on the faces.
ZUNIGA’S PLUMBING that placed “worst” in Round Two is tied with SYSCO for first. Their 5-0 sweep against TIFCO was by almost 300 pins. TIFCO found the lanes a TUF-GO. All four guys shot over 540, but ZUNIGA zipped up sixes apiece.
What? SYSCO on top again? HEINIKEN should be providing the beer! Herman Ferguson fired the best (643) for Team #3. Charlie Kinstler matched the 643, leading SYSCO to their 5/0 start. Gabriel Martinez took over the anchor spot and added his 634. Paul Barraco finished strong with a 248/628. Dean Sanderson had a 250 start plus 155, 205/610.
Eight teams are on the sheet with 4 wins, so the next few weeks should be challenging—like the last 14 weren’t?! From the looks of the standings, the bottom feeders from the last two rounds, have a real shot at climbing the ladder.
We will be watching — A DIFFERENT LOOK CABINETS, BOWLIUM and LOS ALTOS TROPHY. And, if you come down on Monday evening, the watching is worth the ride.
Matt Schermerhorn zeroed in on the pocket, managed a string of X’s and registered the high game of the night, 286, picking up the biggest piece of the Super Sweeper Pot. Ramiro Garcia double dipped, sharing the Super Pot and shagging Game Two Pot with his 259.
Stephen Gaucin stole Game One. When his winning 212 was announced, he was more surprised than anyone. Game Three (for the big money) was bagged by Gabriel Martinez. Nice 264.
Jessica Diso did good too. 222/504 helping THREADWORKS to a 4/1 win over FOREST LANES. Eric Snow!! What happened in Game Three? You have a melt down? Ball went on a sleigh ride? (No coffee for me this week!)
There probably won’t be an Ebonite story the next couple of weeks. No U.P.S. pick-ups or delivers on our regular printing schedule. So, go on line for Ebonite info.
Thanks for Bowling — Thanks for Sponsoring and Thanks for Reading.
